DECORATION DAY.

Los Angeles Mourns Her Soldier Dead.

The Memorial Exercises Creditably Carried Out Here.

The Impressive Ceremonies Held at the Cemeteries.

The Parade—Exercises at the Grand Opera-house—The Day Appropriately Observed at Pasadena, San Fernando and Elsewhere.

The programme of decoration exercises, as heretofore given, was very well carried out yesterday. The weather was rather warm and sultry, though the thermometer ranged only from 75° to 80° during the day. The various posts and relief corps visited the cemeteries of the city in the morning to decorate the dead soldiers. Bartlett Post, 150 strong, and the Relief Corps of the same post, fifty in number, went to Evergreen Cemetery where the ladies had built a floral monument, nine feet high, "to the unknown dead," and a mound of flowers in memory of Gen. John A. Logan, on which appeared his name in white roses. At this place Capt. Skinner made a few appropriate remarks as follows:

Commander, Comrades, Ladies and Gentlemen: Of all the exercises of the day the one that to me seems the most solemn and impressive is this roll-call of the comrades who have passed on before. And to this roll, in a very short time, each one of our names must be added. The Grand Army of the Republic to which we belong differs from any and all other organizations in two or three important particulars, one of which is manifested on each returning Memorial day. We have among us many fraternal societies, all doing their good in this world, each in its own way—caring for the sick, relieving their suffering, providing good and suitable cemeteries for the burial of their dead, employing men whose entire business it is to see that the graves of their dead members are kept green. This is well; it is as it should be. But the Grand Army today throughout the length and breadth of the land, as they decorate the graves of their fallen comrades, do not ask whether the fallen were members of this organization or not, but they ask were they members of that grand army which saved the Republic in 1861-'65. Were they loyal? When the country needed men did they prove themselves men? If so, then we honor their memory. Thus we see that the one central idea of our Memorial day is loyalty. Take that from it, and we have no need to observe the day at all. The richest legacy which this country possesses to-day is the memory of these loyal men whose hearts ceased to beat that the great heart of the nation might continue to throb. The greatest wealth this country possesses today is not represented by the gold and silver piled up in the vaults at the capital; not in the great mineral resources, but in the myriads of loyal hearts, from one end of the land to the other, still beating to the music of the Union, one and inseparable. As we strew these fresh flowers and drop the silent tear upon the graves of our comrades gone before, let us renew our pledges of loyalty. Having with them proved our loyalty to our country, let us continue to be loyal to country, to principle, to each other. Thus may the exercises of the day, while they honor the memory of the dead, also be of value to the living.

The ladies of this corps also sent a floral design in the shape of a large lyre, made of carnation pinks, and 100 bouquets to Prescott, Ariz., in memory of the unknown dead. Members of the other posts and corps proceeded to other cemeteries, where similar programmes were carried out. The ladies of Stanton Relief Corps sent a large box of flowers to Tombstone, and those of Gelcich Corps a box to Flagstaff, Ariz., for decoration purposes.

At half-past 1 o'clock the procession formed on Main and First streets, under command of J. M. Skinner, officer of the day. Many of the business houses, the banks and public offices were closed, and flags at half-mast floated from Military Headquarters, the Normal School and many other buildings. There was a large concourse of people on the streets soon after noon to view the marching veterans. At 1:45 o'clock the procession moved in the following order:

Mounted Police Officers Jackson, Arguello, Fowler and Lynch. Police Capt. Tyler and Officer Hoskins; squad of policemen; staff officers; Seventh Infantry Band; officers of the National Guard.

Companies A and C, of the Seventh Infantry Battalion, N. G. C., Maj. W. H. H. Russell commanding.

Grand Army posts:

Frank Bartlett Post, No. 6, L. S. Butler commanding.

Stanton Post, No. 55, A. M. Thornton commanding.

Gelcich Post, No. 106, E. M. Hamilton commanding.

Gen. Lyon Camp, No. 1, Sons of Veterans, T. M. Gilbert commanding, and the Pasadena Company, No. 7, Dunbar commanding.

Carriages containing president of the day, orator, chaplain, speakers, Mexican Veterans, the Old California Guard, Relief Corps and citizens.

Members of the Woman's Relief Corps who are not in carriages, together with the Ladies' Aid Society of the Sons of Veterans, wives, daughters and sisters of old soldiers, with drum corps. The route, over Main, Spring and Fourth streets, was lined with sight-seers.

The Grand Opera-house was thrown open at half-past 2 o'clock and was soon completely filled above and below, with many standing in the aisles and around the entrance. The gallery was filled with ladies and escorts, and the Grand Army posts and Ladies' Relief Corps occupied most of the body of the house, the other part being taken by ladies and gentlemen. Gen. Nelson Miles and staff were in one of the boxes, and officers of the National Guard of California filled the opposite one. Upon the stage were seated Col. H. H. Markham, president of the day; J. M. Skinner, marshal; Capt. E. P. Johnson, ex-Gov. J. J. Gosper, Will A. Knighten and others.

The stage was handsomely decorated with flowers and bunting by the ladies of Stanton Post Relief Corps. In the center was a stand covered with roses and lilies, from which drooped trailing ivy. At the left a large floral cross to the memory of Gen. Logan, and at the right a large floral cross and cannon. The center stand was draped with a bullet-scarred battle-flag. On the right and left were flags of the G. A. R. posts, and on the back of the stage a large fac-simile of the flag carried by the California Cavalry Battalion during the war, the original now being at San Francisco.

On this was inscribed the names of fifty-two battles in which the battalion participated. This company went to New York, and was incorporated into the Second Massachusetts Cavalry. It went into the war 520 strong, and mustered out 182 men, only 70 of whom were not wounded. At present there are about 160 survivors, and of these the following were present yesterday: C. M. Jenkins, F. E. Barron, R. H. Williams, J. W. Hill.

OPENING ADDRESS.

Grand Marshal Skinner, in a few appropriate words, introduced Col. H. H. Markham, president of the day, who said:

Ladies and Gentlemen, Members of the Grand Army of the Republic: Memorial day has again arrived, and once more you have assembled for the purpose of testifying in this public manner your appreciation of your fallen comrades.

Once more you publicly proclaim to father, mother, brother and sister that, so long as God spares your lives, those so dear to them shall never be forgotten by you, nor shall time erase from your memory the cause for which they fought and died, for it was the noblest, the grandest, the holiest cause that ever reflected the smile of heaven.

Once more you have paused by the silent tomb of a sleeping comrade, and with memory crowded with fond remembrances of his earthly career, decorated it with flowers.

That silent sleeper was neither kith nor kin to you, but he was a brother soldier, and to him your love goes out strong and full—for him you have a reverence almost sublime.

There at his silent tomb you mentally proclaimed that he who slept beneath that sod had, by his love of country, his sufferings and death, assisted in making this land the pride of our people, a lasting monument to liberty and the admired of the whole world.

Sad are the thoughts which surround the memories of those that have gone before, sad indeed is the reminder that time's fierce assault is making such fearful havoc in your ranks

Year by year the muster-roll shows less and less. The great generals and the humblest privates are swept away in that assault. Resistance is useless; human efforts are vain; all must soon surrender, and then to the Sons of Veterans and to a grateful people must be assigned this sacred trust.

Friends of the Grand Army, you need have no fear; that trust will glide from you to them like the commingling of many waters only to be made more impressive as time shall reveal to the world the exalted services you have rendered to your country.

I see before me in this vast assemblage representatives from almost every hamlet in this great county, gathered from hill and valley, from farm and shop, from all the varied walks of life; not as members of a discordant Union, not in a spirit of revenge, not to exult over those who have already suffered too much—no, no; they come in sorrow, not in anger; their hearts are filled with sadness, not revenge. They come as friends, as citizens of a common country, believing in one flag, and that—the old stars and stripes which all are rejoiced to recognize as the symbol of one people, one country and one destiny.

The remainder of the programme was as follows:

Overture—By the Seventh Infantry Band.
Invocation—Chaplain Will H. Knighten.
Vocal Music—Quartette.
Recitation, "Cover Them Over"—Miss Louisa Williams.
War Reminiscences—Prof. Arbuckle.
Vocal Music—Quartette.
Address—Ex-Gov. J. J. Gosper.
Selection—By Seventh Infantry Band.
Recitation, "Sheridan's Ride"—E. A. S. B. Hunter.
Song, "America"—Audience requested to join.

The address, a synopsis of which is here given, as delivered by J. J. Gosper, was received with much enthusiasm and applause by the immense audience present.

Mr. Gosper referred to the occasion which had brought the large concourse of people together, and spoke of the willingness with which he would speak for rights and rewards due the survivors of the Civil War. He then dwelt on the scenes at the beginning and during that strife, the partings at home, the marching to war, the battlefield, the hospital, and future of maimed and disabled veterans, and the gratitude and rewards that were due to them for their heroic services. In the name of the Grand Army men he returned thanks to Col. H. H. Markham for his services in Congress, and paid a fitting tribute to the memory of Gen. John A. Logan. He referred to the work of the Relief Corps in a feeling manner, and consecrated the Sons of Veterans to the work of defending and perpetuating the liberty secured and defended by their ancestors.

At the close of the programme Col. Markham thanked the audience for the honor conferred upon him, and all joined in singing "America," and departed.

AT PASADENA.

Interesting Exercises—Comrade Arbuckle's Oration.

Memorial day was very generally observed at Pasadena. Flags were displayed from most of the buildings, and flowers were everywhere seen. "Closed for Decortion Day," was displayed in all the business windows. The exercises were held in Williams' Hall, which was packed, and many people could not find standing room. Promptly at 1 o'clock John F. Godfrey Post, G. A. R., escorted by the military company, filed in, and the programme was carried out as follows: President of the day, Maj. Gilchrist. Prayer by Rev. A. W. Bunker. Song, "Hail, Columbia," with chorus by the audience. Oration by G. A. Arbuckle. Remarks by Maj. Gilchrist. Hymn, "America," after which the graves of soldiers in the cemetery were decorated with flowers by members of the post.

Comrade Arbuckle's address follows in full:

Mr. President, Comrades and Citizens: Today we are brought face to face with important facts pertaining to our existence as a people. All present power of life is the effect of causes gone before. Out of darkness comes the light. Forth from the night of error breaks truth's morning. From the prison-house of despotism liberty was born, and because patriots died our country lives.

Standing here today, under America's most favored skies, breathing the perfume of her fairest fruits and freshest flowers, amid the wonders of her latest revelation, we are again led to behold her glory, and to feel the grandeur of her mighty presence.

In the shelter of these massive mountains, bathed by the breath of the Pacific sea, bounteous nature's varied products on every hand, how favored are we!

Do we realize? Do we consider? Before man trod this "Garden of the Lord," some mighty power had been here. With His own right arm God pushed up these lofty mountains; with His finger He traced out these sparkling rivers, and with His hand He formed these beautiful valleys and spread over them a carpet of green. He sent up the vapor, it capped the mountains with snow, and pure water came into the vale below. He painted the lily and perfumed the rose. He planted the vine, and shook out odors in showers from orange-trees and heaven-eyed flowers. Then we came to occupy the land and claim the water. Shall it be more beautiful because of our coming? Shall man be blessed and the Maker of all be honored by our presence? Will the people of this favored city be a power for good, opening wide the doors of blessing and closing completely the gates of destruction? While we shall have, today, the sad pleasure of strewing sweet flowers over the graves of the brave, we can counsel as to our weaknesses and sisters whose husbands, sons, fathers and brothers were thrown into the consuming jaws of war, or were captives, tortured by intensest feeling, "like Prometheus, when the vultures through his quivering vitals tore." Their love was the soldiers' inspiration. Their devotion was our encouragement. Without woman's great heart the issue might have been different. Comrades, life is but a fitful gleam between the eternity of the past and the eternity of the future.

An occasion like this brings back to us the most startling experience of our lives. To stand where the hurricane of battle howls the music of war, the terrific chorus sweeping the march of God, is a revelation not to be conveyed by words. There is a thrill, a swelling of the heart and a quickening of the pulse, which no language can portray, no pen describe. In fraternity, charity and loyalty our hearts were united in the heat of battle, and welded by common trials and times of supremest effort. From our ranks private soldiers, officers of line and field, have been mustered out, and one by one they have taken up the silent dead march. The mighty chieftain who never lost a battle, and who, in his engagement with the king of terrors, was found for the first time on the defensive, sleeps on the banks of the Hudson, near the spot where the last British sentry was withdrawn, and near the fort where the flag of Great Britain, which had floated over it for 123 years, disappeared forever, and the stars and stripes flashed back its brilliancy to the setting sun. Our own grand commander, too, so brave, so manly, so faithful and so true, the soldier's unswerving friend, has, too, been honorably discharged from duty on earth, promoted to a higher rank in the world beyond.

O, thou Recording Angel,
Turn to that page whereon
In undimmed brightness
Shines the name of Washington,
And write with pen of flame,
In characters of living light,
Grant and Logan's name.

Who will tell the story when the last gray and tired veteran shall be stilled in eternal sleep? Who will tell of his glory, who fire the salute over his grave? They are passing fast away. Each year increases the ratio. The roll of honor and the pension list are growing smaller; and soon the last discharge will be made out and the last debt paid. All over our country are the humble homes of the brave boys—now silver-haired old men—who stood between our loved land and the war's destruction. We have felt the quiver and the shiver when the ponderous shell streamed past on its death mission as lightnings leap from the sky when the thunderbolts are loosed. When monuments and temples shall have mouldered into dust, the memory of our fallen defenders will live in song and story. The list of heroes will be rehearsed to our children's children, as the old sires tell about the greatness of Lincoln and Grant and Logan, and will point, with just pride, to the part taken by their blood-kin in the struggle for our national life.

Build high the tower of fame for the great and good of the land, and surmount it with the emblem of an American soldier, for he has been found worthiest among his countrymen.

Pile the polished marble high toward heaven; the tooth of time will eat away the massive structure, and the winds of ages will scatter the dust from the sight of men. Rear the mighty shaft of metal, formed in the cauldron of living fire; the tireless, ever-active elements will consume it, and return it to nature's storehouse. Time, the monarch, levels, with his scepter, all of man's tributes to greatness. The memory of the patriot who saved the best government on earth will live through the rolling ages, will be revered until the wreck of worlds and the dissolution of nature shall close the drama of human action, and the warder at the outer court of the Most High shall repeat the Sovereign Commander's summons that "Time shall be no longer."

AT SANTA ANA.

A Handsome Celebration—T. J. De Puy's Oration.

Santa Ana observed Memorial day with handsome services, which were largely attended. The oration was delivered by T. J. De Puy, of this city, as follows:

Comrades and Citizens: Over the mausoleum of sculptured stone, over the imaged hero in glistening bronze, over the humble headstone and unmarked lonely graves the children of liberty are scattering garlands of flowers in memory of their martial dead. Not for Leonidas alone, but for the nameless, immortal squadrons that followed, are the jewels of the field braided in chaplets to commemorate their patriotic devotion. Who in all of the republic inquires for the captain in gilded casket, or the private in tattered blue, as he holds aloft the floral crown to drop it only where the chieftain lies? Epaulets are forgotten and distinctions are broken at the door of the sepulcher, but the humblest clod becomes sacred earth where the patriot sleeps.

Twelve hundred thousand sons of freedom offered themselves for sacrifice in the temple of liberty to perpetuate, undivided, the land secured by the blood of the revolution. They bared their bosoms to the steel aimed at the heart of their country, and 300,000 martyrs leaped from the bow-string of angry war into the mists and shadows of another world. One by one the remainder are being marshaled upon that further shore, where these ghostly pilgrims are answering to the pale chieftain at whose stern command the tongue is forever frozen. Gently and silently the old guards are burying each other, and when the springtime comes, they gather flowers for their graves. These grizzled veterans, banding themselves together to care for each other when sick, and bury each other when dead, until the last shall be no more, is the pathetic ending to an awful tragedy. It is a legend in farther India that in ancient times a mighty god promised sixty devout men that if they would devote their days to his worship and to doing good, that he who saw the last one dead should himself become a god without tasting death; that all should die one at a time, at a certain place named by the god, where they were to meet once in each year. Every year saw one of their number perish, and was buried by the remainder until two only were left, one of whom was blind. At the last meeting the man with sight died, leaving the blind, who lost his place with the gods because he did not see the last man dead. Meekly and slowly feeling his way to his dead comrade, he gathered him in his arms and found his way to the burial, and there broke the sod and in the earth placed his companion. That done, he humbly asked the god that he too might die, and his prayer was answered; but, unburied, the vultures consumed his flesh. If he be poor I wonder when and by whom will be buried the last one of the Grand Army. There is many a lonely hearse journeys to the cemetery whose only following is the half-dozen old warriors, toil-stained and rough, leaving their work to bury a comrade in ground purchased by pinchings from the hard earnings of the old guards, to keep their honor untarnished by the shame of the potter's field. At such a burial, as the shades of evening were falling, I heard the clods rattling above the encoffined dead. And as I listened, fancy heard the sound of bugle, fife and drum, mingling with the rush of many feet, and once again I saw the loyal States marshaling their brave sons into marching squadrons harnessed for war, and sending them by thousands to guard in the Temple of Liberty. I saw the bright rays of the morning sun fall upon the old home, midst fields of rustling corn groaning with plenty, and far-spreading orchards, bending with golden fruit. Within I saw the long table ladened with food and around it gathered the family circle. Their heads were bowed and the aged sire, with quivering voice, returned thanks for divine mercy, and as he whispered the close tears were upon his furrowed cheeks. Silently the meal ended and the son in uniform rose, and around him gathered outstretched hands and eyes strained for a last look. Wrinkled hands, toil-worn and weary, held between them the beardless cheeks of the soldier son, and the dim eyes of the gray-haired mother looked the last upon the idol of her heart. I saw the regiment on the eve of departure, and wives, children and sweethearts were there at the parting. Hurried embracings, whispered admonitions from heart to heart, ending in a low, quivering wail as when the first clod strikes the coffin and bearded man march away with the salt tears on their cheeks. Letters from home were answered, [illegible] and marchings at the South and [illegible] Landing was sought. It was [illegible] the air this day. On [illegible] they will [illegible] Union lines, extending nine miles, were composed largely of raw troops. The ground was soaked with rain, and the air was full of chill. Coffee, made over sodden fires from wet wood, was being drunk, and many a sad heart thought of the good cheer at the old home that fateful Sunday morning. The guns were stacked, and all the gear of war was idle, for the enemy was believed to be at Corinth, miles and miles away. But that intrepid chieftain, Albert Sidney Johnson, well knew the value of a surprise. Boldly leaving his intrenchments at Corinth, he moved his columns in gray through storm and mud, over almost impassable roads, and, in the early morning of that eventful day, the thunder of his artillery was heard far away on our left center. Disguise it as we may, and Gen. Sherman to the contrary, it was an awful surprise, and nothing but the genius of the immortal Grant saved the Union hosts at bloody Shiloh. Regiments were there of men, boys and gray-haired sires—so fresh from home, so new to war that they did not realize that the meaning of that frightful thunder was angry battle, and that iron shot was plowing bloody chasms down the long lines of loyal blue. No need to describe the awful carnage of that unhappy Sunday, or detail the ghastly trophies scattered like the sheaves of harvest athwart the field of battle where trod the iron feet of vengeful war. History has recorded it, and they that survive the conflict will not forget it. But there was marshaled in that long blue line two regiments of infantry, the Fifteenth Michigan and Eighteenth Wisconsin, so new to arms, so fresh in war that no soil marred their uniforms or dimmed the luster of their accouterments. Aye, not long enough to have received the first cartridge to fire at the enemy of their country. Every one of them was father, brother or son to waiting women far in the North, who hoped and prayed and wept for the safety of those brave, unfortunate men. There they stood like men of stone, facing the storm of cruel shot, waiting orders to advance or retire, according to the command. Their jaws were set, their faces pale, their useless, glistening guns resting upon the ground, silent as the image of death, with great, gaping rents in their ranks where men had been shot away. Two mortal hours the ordeal lasted, before they were relieved, and but one-third of those two regiments answered to the next roll-call. Looking North I saw aged men in humble garb, with trembling step and slow, measure miles in their going and coming for news from the awful conflict, and, as they scanned the lists of wounded and killed, raised their knotted hands, and, with white lips, asked from the blue skies help to bear the burden of their woes. Then women gathered bandages and things the heart suggessed, and they built a bridge of love from the old home to the camp, and I saw them going over with burdens of love, and returning with pale-faced men, broken in the shock of battle, and the bloody garments of the men and the mourning robes of the women mingled together. And the bosom of war trailed its squadrons in blue through fire and smoke and blood and tears, until the widows and orphans were counted by the hundred thousands and half the women of the North were robed in somber black. Then the roar and the surge of the mad sea of conflict ceased and I saw the tattered legions reeling and staggering up from the pit of fire. I saw them fade away and were hidden within the robes of Peace, and over the hill and the plain where contending factions surged and swept there was the golden harvest and rustling corn. "Where stood the fort there was the glistening church spire, and I heard the throbbing school-bell mingling with the roar of machinery. The blazing forge gleamed forth where the camp fire was lit and the busy hum of industrious prosperity was heard from center to circumference of the great republic. The robes of mourning faded to white in the sunlight of peace, and green was the sod where the martyrs were sleeping. The mountains opened their bosoms, pouring their wealth into the lap of the nation, and the white wings of commerce were spread wide o'er the sea. Treasure-vault and granary were full to overflowing and 50,000,000 of freemen boasted of an undivided country, where no slave-whip cursed the sod, or bondman sighed for liberty. But in the midst of that beautiful picture, like a rust spot on the shield of Good, appeared that half dozen old veterans, all alone in faded garments, toil-worn and weary, reverently burying a member of the Fifteenth Michigan, who lived through Shiloh's bloody fray, tobe saved from a pauper's grave by his comrades in arms. The grave they made was hallowed and consecrated by the tears of patriots whose valor made the nation great. Year after year they will bring flowers to these lonely spots to commemorate the dust of men who were willing to die that their country might live. Fancy lifts the curtain of the future, and the early dawn of a bright May morning discloses an aged Nestor, the last of his kind—his frosted beard and silvered crown mark him the seer; his form is shrunken and bent, and his clothes hang loosely; in one hand a staff, in the other are grasses, butter cups and lilies of the valley gathered from the meadow; he trembles as at the close of a weary journey, and carefully feels his way like one blinded by the darkness; slowly and falteringly he approaches an unmarked, lonely grave, and pausing there reverently deposits his offering; closing his eyes he meekly murmurs, "Thy will be done," and angels come and moisten those flowers with their tears. It is the last decoration by the old guard. I look into the faces of my comrades, sunned and furrowed by the plowshare of time, and I wonder if they were of those immortal legions of American chivalry, whose heroic deeds are fadeless on the pages of history. The storied urn may break asunder, scattering its contents to the breeze, the lettered stone may be lost in the débris of ages, the engravens brass may lose its tracings in the corrodings of time, aye, history itself may turn to dust under the tread of the moth, yet the heroic achievements of that matchless army will be as heirlooms, perpetuate in memory, and be passed from generation to generation, glorified by fanciful tradition. Fadeless are thy laurels, Grand Army of the Republic.

AT SAN FERNANDO.

Parade and Exercises—Address by H. Z. Osborne.

Decoration day was appropriately observed at San Fernando yesterday. Members of the G. A. R. and of the A. O. U. W. paraded through the streets and proceeded to the Methodist Church, where the literary exercises took place. Ex-Senator Maclay acted as president of the day. After the literary exercises the people marched to the cemetery and profusely decorated the graves of the fallen soldiers.

H. Z. Osborne was the orator of the day. He spoke of the ennobling influence of the sentiment of patriotism, and what had been accomplished by it in the nations of the past. The strength of a country depends more upon the patriotism of its citizens than upon their wealth. Rome was mistress of the world until her patriotism died out, when the nation sank into decay.

Such being the worth of patriotism, the sentiment should be taught to the rising generations, and it is well that certain days be set aside to bring to mind the importance of cherishing this principle in the hearts of the people.

He then reviewed the history of the country, the Civil War, their battles and their heroes, and drew a picture of them in the unknown land. The armies of that war were the grandest the world has ever known, and the sacrifices made by the women of the nation to assist in its preservation should never be forgotten by those who enjoy the liberty so dearly won. The speaker closed with a eulogy upon the life and character of Col. A. B. Moffatt, who served his country well, and was now peacefully at rest in the churchyard now at hand.

Port Ballona.

The Future Harbor of Southern California.

THIS IS THE OCEAN TERMINUS OF THE CALIFORNIA CENTRAL RAILROAD, OF THE ATCHISON, Topeka and Santa Fé system, who are under contract to lay five miles of sidetracks at this point by July 10, 1887—the shortest railroad line between the Atlantic and Pacific Oceans. PORT BALLONA is situated on Santa Monica Bay, only thirty minutes' ride by rail from the City of Los Angeles, with trains to begin running every three hours in the day early in July. Property can be purchased now at a much lower figure than when railroads and steamships are brought together. PORT BALLONA has two main avenues, one 100 feet and one 80 feet wide, with all other streets 60 feet. Residence lots are 40x150, and business lots 25x100 and 25x150 feet. The residence property is at an elevation of from 50 to 75 feet above tide-water, thus affording a most magnificent view, extending from Point Duma to the San Jacinto Mountains, and from the San Bernardino Mountains to Santa Catalina Island, in the Blue Pacific, and with a Beach unsurpassed on the Coast.

The Beautiful Lake of Ballona

Is one of the greatest features of the place, affording, at all times, a perfectly safe and pleasant place for Sailing and Boating of all kinds, and teeming with Fish and Water Fowl. There is also a never-failing Spring of Pure Sulphur Water, and both sulphur and salt water bath-houses are already in course of construction.

☞Water will be delivered in iron pipes in front of each lot under good pressure.

☞Lots are now on sale, and maps and all other information can be obtained from

MARQUETTE!!

The model city, MARQUETTE, one mile east of Magnolia and Ontario, 600 feet higher than the townsite of Ontario, with a frontage [illegible] feet on the Santa Fé Railroad, outside the wind belt. A never-failing supply of the purest mountain water, of sixteen inches piped at high pressure through the town, is deeded with the land. The soil is a rich, warm loam precisely the same as that in the famous Cucamonga Vineyard, the finest in California, near which Marquette is located. Marquette is the center of the most productive fruit district in Southern California. The view from Marquette is unsurpassed, and commands the whole of that rich and fertile valley from Pomona and Rincon, over the Chino Ranch, to Riverside, Ostrich Farm and San Bernardino. A magnificent hotel is now being built at Marquette. A water tank is now under construction, and a large force of men are employed in opening the streets and other improvements. EDWARD [illegible] a man of wealth and culture, is devoting all his energies to the improvement of this new city. For free particulars of [illegible]

VENTURA BLOSSOMS.

CLOSE OF THE BRILLIANT FLOWER FESTIVAL.

Further Description of That Artistic Triumph—Lots of Admirers from Los Angeles—Ventura Notes in General.

SAN BUENAVENTURA, May 28.—[Correspondence of THE TIMES.] The floral festival inaugurated by the ladies of Ventura for the purpose of providing a free temperance hall closed at a late hour tonight, having continued four nights. It seems to be the universal opinion of all persons who have seen the display of floral beauty that it was a perfect success in its artistic arrangement and extensive variety. Pleasure and admiration is expressed by every one. Every day has seen extensive additions to the collections, both of cut flowers, rare potted plants and citrus fruits. A stranger might easily think that Ventura could supply the State with rare and beautiful flowering plants. And it does not require a prophet's voice to say that, before many years, every State in the Union will patronize our perpetual open-air conservatories.

Among the most attractive special exhibits is that brought from Hueneme, a place of amazing fertility of soil and our largest grain port. Mrs. Mattie K. Saviers and Mrs. Rivenberg showed very fine seedling carnations, snowballs, orange blossoms, pond lilies, geraniums, gladiolus and magnolias. Mrs. Antone Maulhardt, a collection of roses. Thomas R. Bard, roses and lilies and rare plants. The Hueneme booth was an object of great admiration, and was a strong competitor for popular favor with the Santa Paula and San Buenaventura booths.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Sexton, of Goleta, Santa Barbara county, showed the flowers of the rare plant, flowering fence, and an attractive table of rare plants and fruits. Among the latter were loquats and custard apples.

Mrs. William Sexton, of Ventura, exhibited twenty-five varieties of roses, besides a camphor tree, a coral plant, hybiscus, crinum, rosalia janses, New Zealand flax and coprosnia.

Mrs. H. W. Conner, of Ventura, exhibited 300 varieties of roses.

J. Hobart, of Ojai Valley, displays magnificent lemons, entirely free from dark rust.

C. H. Sheldon shows very large citrons, grown at his place in the Matillija cañon.

The special exhibit from Mrs. Theodosia B. Shepherd's Ventura nursery was located near the center of the hall and was very highly praised. Such lovely carnations, magnificent fuchsias, begonias and wax lilies were a sight to behold. Mrs. Shepherd may well be enthusiastic over her grand productions.

The candy booth was dressed entirely in blossoms and was presided over by Mrs. J. A. Walker and Misses Bera Day, Hattie C. Ley and Mamie Reilly.

Mmes. J. C. Brewster, J. M. Kaiser, D. S. Blackburn and N. Vickers arranged a table of cacti blossoms, night-blooming cereus and flowering oak, which was very unique and tasteful; also a lily booth, containing a pyramid of fragrant wax lilies and many fine ferns and water plants.

Mrs. A. Waldie, of Santa Paula, contributed a beautiful bank of flowers, containing a monogram "S. P."

Miss Lou Seymour exhibited a beautiful flower design of a beehive.

H. B. Barnett presented a floral design representing the old oaken bucket, made of geraniums, lantanas and marguerites. It was a remarkable piece of work.

The programmes each evening have been varied and entertaining, consisting chiefly of songs and tableaux. The ladies expressed their pleasure with the goodly space which THE TIMES gave to their festival.

The excursion train of four coaches arrived from Los Angeles at 11:30 a.m. The excursionists were very much delighted with our lovely Santa Clara Valley, and express themselves as greatly surprised at the sight of such fine orchards and immense grain crops. About half the party left on the train at 5 p.m.; the others remained over.

At 7 p.m. we had a delightful shower of rain, accompanied with light thunder and lightning. It was not sufficient to injure the hay which is newly mown.

Senator Stanford, with his party, inspected the railroad work in Ventura on Friday.

The citizens of Ventura have arranged for an excursion to Los Angeles on next Friday, to return here the same day.

Memorial day will be observed by Cushing Post, No. 44, G. A. R., with a procession to the cemetery, an oration by Judge W. E. Shepherd, and decoration of deceased comrades' graves. The Ventura Brass Band will attend the services.

The Board of Town Trustees this evening, at a special meeting, called for the purpose of considering the claims of a few disaffected property-holders on Front street, through which the Southern Pacific Company have built a grade for its track, by a vote of 3 to 2, decided that this town had no grievance whatever against the company, and refused to institute any legal proceedings against it. The people are greatly pleased with the fair and just action of the board.

THE NATIVE SONS.

The New Parlor Now Forming in This City.

The new parlor of the Native Sons of the Golden West, now being organized in this city, is meeting with excellent encouragement. The charter list will contain about sixty names, including many of the most prominent young men of this city. The members of the new parlor are very enthusiastic, and propose to build and furnish a hall, to contain a lodgeroom, reading-room, banquet-room and library—in fact, to build a headquarters for the members of the fraternity. As there will be many wealthy young men in the new parlor, this will be easy of accomplishment. The plans are now being made to carry out this idea. The parlor will probably be instituted within a week. A partial list of the charter members follows:

R. F. del Valle, Stephen M. White, C. F. Rutan, J. B. de las Casas, F. L. Cantin, S. B. Dewey, A. J. Wheeler, O. A. Stassforth, J. H. Schumacher, J. J. Watson, Frank Cooke, John P. Moran, R. Miller, J. Downey Harvey, W. I. Foley, M. O. Biscailenz, J. A. Aguierre, F. T. Griffith, Edward K. Benchley, George M. Stone, W. M. Caswell, Sutherland Hutton, E. H. Sanderson, Albert Rimpau, William M. Hughes, Walter L. Wheeler, Charles Vogelsang, F. D. Elder, James C. Kays, James P. Yates, Frank W. Marston, W. H. Holmes, Charles H. Smith, John C. Pelton, Jr., J. R. Eckstrom and many others, who will sign the charter list this week.

Departures by Steamer.

The steamer Los Angeles sailed North yesterday evening with the following passengers:

For San Francisco—Mary Lamb, A. J. Edwards, H. H. McGee, George Naughton and C. E. Everett.

For Santa Cruz—W. K. Wisner.

Real Estate.

St. James.

St. James.

The development of Southern California seems to follow in the wake of the "Santa Fe Trail," as the "People's Line" is known in the East.

The magnificent foothill country has been opened, towns created and fortunes made by the investors in town property.

Now comes the first new town in the beautiful valley of the Santa Ana,

ST. JAMES.

It is located just at the outlet of the Santa Ana canyon, near the foothills, commanding a beautiful view of the Pacific Ocean.

Anaheim, four and a half miles, Orange, five miles, Santa Ana, nine miles. It will naturally control the great business of the Santiago Valley, and there is no soil more fertile, no landscape more entertaining, no future more promising, than this first new town in the Santa Ana Valley. The finest water power in the county is close to the townsite. The mill grinds day and night, with a force of 120-horse power.

The water for the town of St. James is there now, not "to be developed," but actually there.

The townsite is clean, level and perfect.

The maps will be out in a day or two.

A Grand Auction Sale will be held on the grounds on SATURDAY, JUNE 4th, by Matlock, Newton & Matlock, auctioneers. The excursion will leave Los Angeles at 8:30 a.m.

Fare to Anaheim and return, $1.00. Free transportation from Anaheim to St. James and return for those holding excursion tickets.

Remember, the first purchasers always make money in our new towns.

"ROWENA!"

Lots in this beautiful tract should be purchased by all who desire to build a home, just outside the city limits, amid full-bearing fruit trees, the produce of which alone will pay the purchaser good interest on his purchase-money.

"ROWENA"

Is pre-eminently adapted for suburban homes, and a continuation of the West Los Angeles street-car line will soon reach the tract.

"Rowena" is Situated on Western Avenue.

It is not surpassed in its loveliness by any property elsewhere. Every want is supplied that man can desire—sunshine, ocean breeze, pure water, best ground. You need not till the soil; you can look on while the earth sends forth her plenty. All other tracts are but as the STARS, but THIS TRACT IS IN COMPARISON AS THE HEAVEN ITSELF THAT LIGHTS THE STARS.

"Flowers, the first luxury that Nature knew,
In Eden's pure and guiltless garden grew."

AT "ROWENA."

ONE, TWO AND A HALF AND FIVE-ACRE LOTS

AT "ROWENA."

THE PRICES OF THE ACRES ARE EQUIVALENT TO PRICES OF LOTS ELSEWHERE.

FROM $400 PER ACRE.

Intending purchasers will be driven out to Rowena any day at 9:30 and 3 o'clock.

All wanting acre property should immediately visit ROWENA, as the demands for this property are increasing daily. For beauty and full-bearing trees it cannot be duplicated in the county of Los Angeles.

The RAYMOND IMPROVEMENT COMPANY, having purchased 347 acres of that well-known, highly-improved and cultivated tract, now offers for sale its DIVISION NO. 1, with large frontages on FAIR OAKS AVENUE and MISSION STREET, large lots, averaging 60x180 feet; streets from 50 to 80 feet wide, and to be graded, piped and planted in trees at the expense of the company. Each lot to have connection laid to main pipes, and to have FREE one share of stock in the MARENGO WATER COMPANY, thus insuring an abundant supply of pure water for irrigation and domestic use.

Easy and frequent communication now had with Los Angeles by the L. A. & S. G. V. R. R., with station at northwest corner of tract. The new line of the Southern Pacific Co., from the new town of Ramona northward, is to run through the middle of the tract, and a first-class station is to be established at the reservoir in front of the Raymond Hotel.

GARFIELD AVENUE, running from Alhambra Station on the S. P. R. R. to Raymond Station on the L. A. & S. G. V. R. R., is 70 feet wide through the east side of this tract, and will soon have a line of street cars in operation its entire length.

Patriotic Los Angeles.

Memorial day—the Sabbath of the nation—has come once more and gone. Los Angeles was not behind the multitude of patriotic cities all over the land in doing honor to the dead heroes of the late war. The men who died that freedom might live—that the institutions of free goverment might be preserved, are not forgotten in the hearts of this people. Los Angeles is a loyal city. Although far removed from the scenes of strife, so far that the echoing tread of marching armies scarce reached her borders, and though but few of her people then living here took part in the conflict that threatened the destruction of the nation's life, she today participates as heartily and as generally in the services commemorative of that heroic struggle as any city of the Union.

This speaks more loudly, perhaps, than anything else of the change that has come to this section, and of the new life that has been infused here. Los Angeles has gathered to herself a large element of intelligence and patriotism. The love of country and the memory of heroic sacrifice kindles here an enthusiasm not less sincere and hearty than is found in the cities that sent out their soldiers by regiments and battalions to the war, and were the great struggle to be fought over again she would send forth as brave an army of patriots as could be gathered from any section of the land.

The immigration that has come to us is of the best, and it has come bringing with it not only the church and the school and the printing press, but it has brought with it the memory of the march and the battlefield, of wounds, and of the blood that was shed by dying heroes. It has brought with it a love of free institutions that nothing can stifle, and the seeds of liberty to plant upon the sunset shores of this wide continent.

It is this that will lend a glory and a beauty to the Los Angeles of the future. We may plant and sow and reap our multitudinous harvests; we may build up great cities, and increase in wealth of manufactures and varied industries; we may develop our unbounded resources, and become more populous than the older States, but still our crowning grandeur shall be our devotion to liberty.

This portion of the American continent is the most desirable of any part of our great heritage. It is a land fit for the empire of universal freedom, and it is charming to see here the evidences of patriotism so manifest and universal. From these Memorial day services all bitterness of feeling has departed. The blue and the gray mingle together as members of one common country. The loyal soldier feels a sense of pity for the mistakes of his foe, yet he feels that it is a privilege to honor the memory of the loyal dead, and to keep green their deeds of valor.

The difference between treason and loyalty it is right that we should not forget, yet, with "malice toward none," we may gather as we did yesterday to honor the thousands of loyal dead who gave their lives to their country, and strew fragrant flowers upon their graves. Los Angeles and the country is better for commemorating the day. It is the most impressive lesson in American patriotism that could be taught to rising generations.

The Apprentice Question.

The following, taken from the columns of the Chicago Inter Ocean, so exactly accords with ideas recently advanced by THE TIMES on this subject that we reprint it with some satisfaction. Unquestionably this is the weak link in the chain of labor organizations. They are not providing for the future standing and character of their several crafts. The Inter Ocean says:

"In the deluge of inferior labor which Europe is letting loose upon us the question of American apprenticeship is important. There is a glut of labor and a dearth of skill. Enrolling an immigrant as a member of this union or that assembly does not convert him from a botch into a skilled workman. Insistance that by virtue of his enrollment he shall receive the wages of a skilled hand does not make him worthy of it, nor does it prevent that fall in the average rate of wages which must surely follow the payment of poor labor at the price of good. There is just so much margin of profit to the employer; if he pays a good price for bad labor the margin shrinks, and as competition prevents him from enlarging it outward, or by increase in the market price of his goods, he has to enlarge it inward, or by reduction of the cost of making, which is by lessening wages. There is no possibility of escape from the operation of this law. The man most interested in seeing that good work is offered for good wages is the man who wants high wages to be the rule. Unless by an apprenticeship system it is hard to see how enough skilled workmen are to be kept in the market to check the downward drift of wages which the downward drift in quality of work is making."

The Smugglers.

The San Diego Union winds up an editorial—in which it displays incredulity about the extent of smuggling there—with the following graceful admissions:

"There are more inspectors needed on the line below, and certainly one at least ought to be stationed permanently near Point Loma, who should board vessels as soon as they are sighted and before any possible illegal connection might be had with the Chinese quarter near La Playa.

The agitation of this subject in this effective manner will no doubt result in much good hereafter. For there are only three or four active men in the service here and a vigilant District Attorney, with the occasional aid of a skillful newspaper specialist, will do much to strengthen the 200-mile stretch of land and water line that is now being guarded by one lone sentinel."

"IT is claimed by some that the Southern Pacific Company is putting the Santa Fé asleep as regards its intentions concerning Southern California—that it will soon throw a force of workmen into San Diego county that will astonish the natives."—[Escondido Times. Oh, yes! We all know about the fashion in which the Santa Fé has been "put to sleep" in this southern country. It is the liveliest somnambulist on record.

IS IT exactly in keeping with the spirit of Memorial day to make of it a day of idle pleasure? A good many people do this. The especial object of the day—that of perpetuating the deeds and the valor of our dead soldiers—is lost sight of. Especially is this the case with many of the rising generation, and those who have come

A SERIOUS ACCIDENT.

A Runaway Saddle Horse Causes Disaster.

Early yesterday morning a man was riding a horse along First street, when the animal became frightened and shied into a street-car, throwing his rider to the ground. The animal then started on a wild run down Main street, and, in attempting to turn into Commercial, he ran upon the sidewalk, where a number of people were standing. They attempted to get out of the way of the wild animal, but two of them failed to do so, a lady and a little son of José Sanchez. They were struck and knocked down by the horse, which fell at the same time, and, in his struggles to rise, caught his foot in the lady's hoops. She was extricated and dragged out, but the boy was bruised and kicked about the head and stomach in a very bad manner. He was carried into a drug store, and a doctor called, who examined the child and expressed the opinion that he was badly hurt. He was taken to the home of his father, on Coldwater street. The lady was not seriously hurt and soon went on her way. Last evening the boy was reported to be not dangerously injured.

Sunset Tourists.

Fitzpatrick, Mississippi; Mrs. M. H. Savage, Florida; Miss Lizzie McGuire, Glidden, Colo.; Alf. Sterne, Houston, Tex.; E. M. Sucker, New York; F. C. Chon, Baton Rouge, La.

Provoking Patients.

The residents of East Los Angeles are much put out over the doings of three or four County Hospital patients, who are in the habit of leaving the hospital every few days. The men are old-timers, and, as soon as they escape from the hospital grounds, they make a bee-line for East Los Angeles, and go from house to house begging until they get money enough to buy several gallons of beer. They then get drunk, and hang about town until the officers are called on to take them to jail. Instead of being locked up they are returned to the hospital, and in a few days the begging act is repeated.

Water-color Exhibition.

An exhibition of studies in water-color, chiefly by Boston artists, begins today at the art rooms of Sloane & Mudge, 11 West Second street. The following numbers are by our own talented artist, Alex. F. Harmer:

52.—"Here's a Pretty Mess."
53.—"Here's Looking at You."
54.—"Comparative Anatomy."
55.—"The Sampler."
56.—"Dolce Far Niente."
57.—"Reflections on Labor."
58.—"Chinatown, Los Angeles."
59.—"Bit of San Luis Rey Mission."
60.—"Sketch of Foothills."
61.—"Noon."

With Brass Knuckles.

Two unknown men got into a quarrel on Main street late yesterday afternoon, when one of them pulled his hand out of his coat-pocket and struck the other two terrific blows in the face, knocking him down. The assailant started off on the dead run, with Deputy Constable Sutter after him. He outran the officer, and made good his escape. When the officer returned to the man who had been struck, he found that brass knuckles had been used, and the man was in a bad condition. He was given in charge of some friends, who said they would look after his wounds.

Another Crazy.

John Stepanich, a Bohemian, who has been examined several times of late by the Commissioners of Insanity, was creating a disturbance on Seventh street last night, and his friends telephoned to the police station that they had a crazy man. Officers Reel and Little were detailed to bring him in. On their way to the station he did not act at all like a crazy man, but as soon as he was put in a cell he got it into his head that he was John L. Sullivan, and it was thought for a while that he would have to be put in a straight-jacket. His case will be looked into today.

The Boxing Match.

Those who went to Armory Hall last night to see some knocking out were disappointed. After several bouts between unknowns, including a very good wrestling match, Tom Cleary met Bradstreet, who, for some reason, appeared under an assumed name. Bradstreet was clearly overmatched, though at the finish he expressed a willingness to meet Cleary within two weeks. The wind-up between Cleary and Golden was play for the former.

Raymond.

The new town of Raymond, close to the great hotel, is enjoying a steady boom. The sales have already reached a total of $100,000, and are going on handsomely. The streets are all graded, and the syndicate is preparing to let the contract for four and a half miles of sidewalks. These will probably be made of the new bituminous limerock, the color of which is less trying to the eyes than the dazzling cement, and the substance of which is springy and easier on the feet.

Not Sir John's Son.

The young man referred to in Saturday's issue of THE TIMES as a son of Sir John Macdonald, of Canada, is not his son, but a young man who resides in this city and has contracted a habit of drinking, which, without a sudden change, will be his ruin. It is stated on good authority that Mr. Hack has had nothing to do toward keeping him in his house, the Arlington, and that young McDonald has kept himself shut up there by his own instructions.

A Lively Runaway.

Yesterday forenoon a span of horses, belonging to Matthews Bros., attached to a wagon, made a lively and disastrous trip down Upper Main street. They went at a rattling pace along, striking several objects, and finally bringing up near a candy-stand. The wagon was badly demolished. One horse had a leg broken, and the other was badly cut and had a hip-joint thrown out of place. It was feared that one or both of the animals would have to be killed.

A Fine Place Sold.

Capt. F. Edward Gray, of Alhambra, has sold his place, one of the most beautiful in that beautiful settlement. The tract contains twenty acres, and Capt. Gray got $40,000 for it—which shows how the wind blows in that direction. The purchase was effected late Saturday night by a syndicate comprising Mr. Stanton, Col. Dobyns, George Rice and Alonzo Phillips.

A Brave Sailor.

When Frank Bartlett Post arrived at Evergreen Cemetery yesterday morning it was found that some one had removed the rope from the flagstaff, so the flag could not be hoisted. A sailor from Wilmington, who refused to give his name, climbed to the top of the 250-foot mast and fixed the rope, and the stars and stripes went up.

MEN AND WOMEN.

Ouida, the novelist, does all her literary work during the four morning hours following 5 o'clock.

Miss Evelyn Ames, daughter of the Governor of Massachusetts, has studied under Rubenstein and is said to be a very fine pianist.

Secretary Fairchild is short and stout. He is an outdoor man in his tastes, having been for years a member of athletic clubs of all kinds.

King Kalakaua has twenty dancing girls retained in the royal service. The King will probably not be lonely while his Queen is absent.

One brother of Lieut. Danenhower is a book-keeper in Chicago, and another is a type-setter in the Government Printing Office at Washington.

Mrs. Frances Hodgson Burnett is short, rotund, with a good English type of face and pink and white complexion. Her manners are youthful in the extreme.

Young Maurice Bernhardt, a son of the famous Sarah, is a slim youth of 23. He wears a black tie and ugly shirt buttons for evening dress, and high-heel patent leather gaiters.

Miss Murfree, known to the reading public as Charles Egbert Craddock, is not pretty nor girlish. She has a strong but sweet face, and a determined manner. Her chirography is masculine in character.

Charles B. Jefferson, eldest son of Joseph Jefferson, the actor, is about 37 years of age, and a very handsome man. He is a widower, with four daughters, that are perfect types of beauty, at present residing with his sister, at Montclair, N. J.

Mrs. Joseph E. McDonald, wife of the ex-Senator from Indiana, is one of the most strikingly handsome women in this country. Her hair is white, her eyes black and her color a delicate pink. She obtained a divorce from her first husband, J. A. Banard, some years ago, and was married to Mr. McDonald a short time later. She is one of the leaders of Indianapolis society.

A Foe to Butter.

[Pasadena Star.]

The funny contortions of the Lynch effort to keep up his fight for Vandever's seat in Congress reminds us of the buck that was a noted butter. On account of this ugly propensity his owner tied him to a tree and allowed him to put in his time belaboring the unmovable trunk with his fool head. A few days later the owner called to see how his woolship was getting along and found nothing but about two inches of tail, still butting away.

Or a Safe.

[Tombstone Epitaph.]

Some of those Philadelphia papers are getting too smart. The News of that saintly city says two large gold mines have been opened by the earthquake in the Santa Catalina Mountains. Some of these days an enterprising earthquake in Arizona will open a dry goods store or a barber shop.

The Little Joker.

[Buffalo Courier.]

"James," said a Michigan-street wife to her husband, "What's the Anti-Poverty Association I read about in the newspapers?" "It's a 'sociation to make us poor folks rich." "And what'll happen to the folks that are rich now?" "They'll all be made poor."

A Conjuncture of Planets.

[St. Louis Globe-Democrat.]

According to Herr Falb, the moon is approaching the earth at the rate of about nine feet in a century, which signifies that a collision will take place at about the same time that the Democratic party's plan of reform shall begin to have practical effect.

No Use for Water.

They are laughing down at Louisville over a man who set up "an ice-water cooler" in the Democratic State Convention, and had more water when the thing adjourned than when it opened—as the ice all melted.

Pleasant Features.

[Pomona Progress.]

A pleasant feature of The LOS ANGELES TIMES is its fine dress, make-up and complete telegraph reports. The most bitter enemy of THE TIMES must acknowledge the points mentioned.

But There's the Difference.

[San Bernardino Times.]

Had the pistol plays that were indulged in in the First National Bank been made in a saloon by poor men, the whole gang would have been arrested and fined for disturbing the peace at least.

The Veneration Vacuum Becomes a Bump.

[Montrose Republican.]

No matter how bad and destructive a boy may be, he rarely so far loses his self-respect as to throw mud on a circus-poster.

The Greatest Fishery Trouble.

The Philadelphia Chronicle says: "After all, the greatest fishery trouble is when they won't bite."

Have to Be Developed.

[New York Tribune.]

Geniuses can not be manufactured. They have to be developed.

AMUSEMENTS.

LEWIS MORRISON.—Last evening was the first performance of Lewis Morrison and company in A Celebrated Case. The attendance was very fair. The play, with its emotional character and rather startling scenes, is of such a nature as to hold the interest of an audience, and certain portions of the rendition drew forth hearty applause.

Lewis Morrison sustains well the character of "Jean Renaud," soldier and convict, and the supporting company is very fair, though in some parts of the play more force and feeling would be appropriate in some of the minor characters.

Miss Isabel Morrison takes the part of "Adrienne D'Aubeterre," the daughter of "Renaud," and adopted daughter of the "Duchess D'Aubeterre." George C. Staley, as "O'Rourke, valet to the "Duke D'Aubeterre," furnished the fun for the evening by his Irishism, lingual and physical, and adds to the interest of the drama. The same play will be on the boards this evening, to be succeeded by The Galley Slave for the next two nights.

Pat and His Protector.

Officer Moore and Deputy Constable Sutter had a hard time getting two disorderly creatures to the city prison last night. Moore arrested a drunk named Pat Hefner, who was kicking up a row on Main street, near Commercial, and started to the station with him, when a German attempted to take Pat away from the officer. Sutter happened to be near by and it took the combined efforts of both of them to get the men to jail.

PACIFIC COAST.

Santa Cruz Visited by a Great Fire.

Several Hotels in Ashes—Heroic Deed of an Actress.

Kissane Sued for Forgeries Committed Many Years Ago.

Terrific Thunder and Wind-storms in California—Floods in New Mexico Delay Trains—Arizona and Texas Again Shaken Up by Earthquakes.

By Telegraph to The Times.

SANTA CRUZ, May 30.—By the Associated Press.] Fire broke out at 3 o'clock this afternoon in a Chinese wash-house on the lower Plaza. A breeze was blowing briskly. The fire spread rapidly to an Italian saloon and the hotel adjoining, kept by C. Capelli, and to the livery stable of Goodwin & Martin. Memorial exercises were in progress at the Pavilion. Business houses were all closed, and the streets were comparatively deserted. Several minutes elapsed before the firemen could get to work. To add to their dilemma the water was partially turned off, and its force was ineffectual. The flames communicated rapidly to the Swanton House and Bonner stable, and in twenty minutes a general conflagration, the largest known in this city for many years, was in progress. Citizens rallied to the support of the firemen. The flames had now gained the mastery, and for thirty minutes raged without check, extending down Water street on both sides nearly to the upper bridge across the San Lorenzo River, and down Front street to the Eagle stables.

Within little more than an hour after the alarm, the Swanton House, Capelli's Italian Hotel, the Santa Cruz House, the Swiss Hotel, Bonner's stables, Goodwin & Martin's livery stables, a French laundry, one Chinese laundry and five dwellings were in ashes. Farnham's feed stables and the Anthony block, on Water street, were badly damaged. All the horses and vehicles were saved; also, considerable furniture. The total loss is $50,000; partly insured.

BRAVE DEED OF A LADY.

Miss Eugene Blair, leading lady of the Ward Company, did a brave act, which earned her the applause of the on-lookers. She was sitting on the Pacific Ocean House porch, when she saw the Swanton House on fire, and immediately rushed over to render assistance to the ladies of the company staying at the Swanton House. On her way down the burning stairway she saw a lady who was too weak to stand, and in danger of being injured. Miss Blair bravely took the lady in her arms and carried her to a place of safety, at the risk of her own life.

SEVERE STORMS.

Terrific Thunder and Lightning—A Barn Struck.

VISALIA, May 30.—[By the Associated Press.] At 11 o'clock last night, after the warmest day of the season, the sky suddenly became cloudy and a heavy thunder shower came up. For an hour peal followed peal without cessation. The rainfall was heaviest in the mountains, but was light and of short duration here. At 2 o'clock p.m. today a few drops of rain fell.

SANTA BARBARA, May 30.—Last night about a quarter of an inch of rain fell, accompanied by the heaviest thunder and lightning storm ever known here.

HOW IT RAGED AT TULARE.

TULARE, May 30.—The most violent electrical storm ever known in this part of the State took place last night. At about half-past 10 the lightning began to flash and the thunder rolled. It continued about two hours. The flashes of lightning succeeded each other in such rapid succession that objects could be discerned miles away. The peals of thunder were so violent as to shake houses and rattle windows. Eastern people, who claim to have witnessed many terrific storms, admit that the storm of last night was one of the severest known. During the storm some rain fell.

TEMPLETON, May 30.—An electric storm of thunder and lightning occurred here last night, and rain is threatening.

STRUCK BY LIGHTNING.

SAN DIEGO, May 30.—A barn belonging to Alexander Bellar was struck by lightning last night at Encinitas, about thirty miles from this city, and with its contents was burned to the ground. The building was a new one, and cost about $2000. It contained 100 tons of hay and all the farming implements of the ranch. It was insured for $700.

A GALE AT CALICO.

CALICO, May 30.—A severe windstorm from the east visited this place at 5:30 p.m. yesterday. Buildings at the Blackfoot, King, Bismarck and Occidental mines were unroofed. Thomas Craig, a miner at the Occidental, was slightly injured by a falling cabin. Part of the grade work on the Oro Grande mill, under construction, near Daggett, was demolished. The amount of damage is not reported.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 30.—A light rain began falling at 11 this evening, with indications of a storm.

TRAINS DELAYED.

Heavy Rains Making Travel Slow in New Mexico.

ALBUQUERQUE, May 30.—[Special.] The west-bound California express due here this morning at 1 o'clock is nearly twenty-four hours late. The delay is caused by the recent heavy rains, making the roadbed unsafe, and, in places, requiring trains to run very slowly. The rain has ceased, however, and no further damage is anticipated, but it will be several days before trains run on schedule time with safety.

ALBUQUERQUE, May 30.—[By the Associated Press.] The Rio Grande has been gradually rising for the past few days, and the railroads are anticipating washouts. All trains have been several hours detained by slow running on account of fear of the river.

DELIBERATE MURDER.

The Shooting of Young Burton at Salt Lake City.

SALT LAKE, May 30.—[By the Associated Press.] The inquest over the body of J. P. Burton, killed on Sunday morning, developed little new. Martin claims that Burton looked through the window of the saloon and saw him counting money, and followed him. Burton's friends deny this, and claim that it was a cold-blooded murder. The Coroner's verdict was that the shooting was malicious and premeditated. Burton was a young man raised here and had many warm friends. Martin is a barkeeper. He said, when asked why he shot, that he did no more than another would have done under similar circumstances. Before the fatal shot Martin fired in the air to frighten Burton away.

THE SHAKING SOIL.

Earthquakes Still Give Arizona People Regular Daily Scares.

BENSON (Ariz.), May 30—[By the Associated Press.] Another severe shock of earthquake occurred here today at 11:55 o'clock. It was the heaviest since the big temblor of the 3d inst., and caused considerable alarm, people crowding into the streets for safety. No damage was caused, however. Earthquakes have become part of our existence now, scarcely a day passing without one or more slight shocks. Circulars have been received from Director Powell, of the United States Geological Survey, requesting information regarding the big earthquake of the 3d inst.

A QUAKE AND A CYCLONE.

SOCORRO (Ariz.), May 30.—There was a pretty severe shock of earthquake here this afternoon at about 1 o'clock, which created much excitement, though no damage was done. Ten minutes afterward there was another shock, but it was very light.

Last evening a terrific dry cyclone visited this city. It came from the mountains on the east side of town, and swept away a great many Mexican jackals and unroofed several more substantial buildings. There was no one injured severely.

EL PASO, May 30.—A slight shock of earthquake was felt here today at 12:50 p.m. A good many citizens vacated buildings.

THE MEXICAN QUAKE.

CITY OF MEXICO (via Galveston), May 30.—Reports coming in from various points in the southern part of the Republic show that the earthquake of Sunday morning was felt very generally. It is universally stated that the shock was severe. It was felt in Jalapa, Cordova, Esprangs, Tehuacana, Puebla and Exaca. It has been ascertained that the aqueduct here is cracked in some places, and the curious phenomena is reported of water first heated and afterward cooled.

KISSANE.

Suits Brought to Make Him Pay the Forged Notes.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 30.—[By the Associated Press.] It has been learned that William Kissane has not fled to British Columbia, but that he is still at his ranch in Sonoma county. A summons has been served on him in the case of the Chemical National Bank, of New York, against William Kissane, alias William K. Rodgers, an action commenced to recover on certain alleged forged notes in the possession of the bank. It is stated that other suits of a similar character will be commenced.

Grain Fields Burned.

MARYSVILLE, May 30.—On Saturday night the fields at the Kentucky ranch, fifteen miles distant, caught fire, and several hundred acres of hay, some standing grain, barns and fences were destroyed. The loss will reach several thousand dollars.

On Sunday afternoon fire was discovered on the grazing fields at Traynor's sheep ranch, nine miles north of this city. Before it could be stopped a grain field of fifteen acres was destroyed. Only the combined efforts of several large crews of farm hands from different ranches saved many thousand acres of growing grain. Several of the men were partly suffocated, and the attendance of a physician was necessary.

Railway Matters Up North.

WALLA WALLA (Wash.), May 30—Construction began today on the Oregon and Washington Territory Railroad from Wallula to Pendleton, a distance of thirty-four miles. The contractor, G. W. Hunt, has a force of about 400 men. It is uncertain whether the Southern Pacific or Northern Pacific is backing the enterprise. The Southern Pacific is negotiating with Wallula property-owners for a right of way and depot grounds.

High water carried out the Yakima county bridge over the Natchez River on Sunday.

The Marshall Monument.

SACRAMENTO, May 30.—Senator Caminetti, of Amador, and J. H. Miller, of the Record-Union, members of the Marshall Monument Commission, will leave by private conveyance in the morning for Coloma, where the gold discoverer is buried. They will examine a quarry near there, and if the rock proves satisfactory, they will use the same for the $5000 monument.

An Overdose of Morphine.

SAN BERNARDINO, May 30.—[Special.] Dr. W. F. Share, the druggist, died suddenly of an overdose of morphine this afternoon.

WASHINGTON.

TARIFF TALK.

PHILADELPHIA, May 30.—A Washington dispatch to the Times says: "Secretary Fairchild is seriously contemplating a movement, with the approbation of the President and his colleagues, looking to the concentration of the Democrats in the House of Representatives and in the Senate, upon a measure of tariff reduction.

A SPECIAL SESSION RUMOR.

NEW YORK, May 30. — The World's Washington special says that owing to a strong party pressure, the President will yield and call a special session of Congress as early as October.

THE PRESIDENT'S TRIP.

His Old Luck in Piscatorial Pursuits Returns.

SARANAC LAKE HOUSE (N. Y.), May 30.—[By the Associated Press.] President Cleveland rose this morning, breakfasted at 8, and went, with Col. Lamont and Dr. Rosman, down to the lake to troll for trout. He caught more than the others of the party. After dinner the President and Mrs. Cleveland and Col. and Mrs. Lamont, Dr. and Mrs. Rosman, and Riddle, of Saranac inn, drove in buckboards seventeen miles to Roy Brook House, to try brook-trout fishing. The trout preserves were opened early to give the President a chance to try the fishing before the fish had seen a fly. Just before sunset the President cast his flies, and, when he came into supper, he proudly exhibited a catch of handsome speckled trout. The President and Mrs. Cleveland are in excellent health.

Cardinal Gibbons's Purpose.

NEW YORK, May 30.—A Baltimore dispatch to the Sun says that Cardinal Gibbons will return in June. He will probably be armed with power to convene a council from officials of the Propaganda, so that when he assembles the Archbishops their line of inquire will be mapped out for their consideration. What that course will be has already been indicated by the Cardinal's report on the Knights of Labor. Probably a great majority of the Archbishops will heartily approve his views.

Land Sales at Tustin.

TUSTIN, May 30.—The Lehy tract was yesterday purchased by a syndicate from San Francisco and Los Angeles. Other valuable tracts in town, of from twenty to seventy-five acres, were bought by outside capitalists.

LAW AND THE LADY.

Mme. Janish's Little Hidden Drama.

A San Diego Lawyer and an Eastern Debtor in Leading Roles.

Powerfully Supported by a Formidable Writ of Attachment.

How the Fair Actress Concluded to Settle a Trifling Debt of $8000—Dramatic Scene at Her Hotel—An Ingenious Female Financier.

By Telegraph to The Times.

SAN DIEGO, May 30.—[Special.] Countess d'Arco Rodenza Janish, now Antoine Janish, who has been playing Camille and the like in Los Angeles for a week with little success, played a hidden drama with a realism not herself upon the stage in her room at the St. Elmo last Saturday afternoon. The mystery of her money and how she got it, with her tough luck and impractical genius, has been for some time like a hovering cloud about this beautiful, fascinating, spirited Viennese. About 1 o'clock on Saturday last, her manager, Stone, was approached by Patterson Sprigg, a brilliant and handsome young lawyer, of the firm of Carter & Sprigg, of San Diego, and a threat of attachment intimated for $8000. Stone brushed the matter aside with a shrug and without a flutter. Four hours later, in the room of Janish at the St. Elmo, sat the little actress, with Stone and her counsel, Hall, of Los Angeles, on either side. Judge Carpenter sat not far away, while a tap at the door brought Janish with a sweep to open the door on Mr. Patterson Sprigg, who entered with a knightly bow.

"I suppose you know the object of my visit, madame?" said he to the wandering little debtor.

"I do, sir," she said, with suppressed emotion and broken accent.

"Well, our proposition is simple and to the point and can be adjusted without difficulty," continued the young lawyer, with polished yet firm courtliness. "Yet resistance is too late unless trouble is desired."

The curtains hung richly about the darkened room, and there was a silence for a moment as Lawyer Sprigg drew from his pocket the complaint, the affidavits for attachment and the bond. This lawyer had taken Stone's rebuff at its worth and was prepared for action. There he stood, with the documents in his hand, ready to seize all the property and paraphernalia of the little beauty, whose eyes were blazing. The silence was broken. Janish sprang to her feet and bounded face to face with her prosecutor.

THE CLAIM SETTLED.

"You are my enemy for life, sir," cried she with dramatic passion and power, but the young lawyer stood firm. The claim was for $8000, borrowed, under romantic circumstances, from a wealthy society woman and matron, in Philadelphia, and lent in good faith by her. The meeting was a business one, and ended in a business way. Janish was penniless and desperate. For her trip West has been a profitless one, and Sprigg spared her all he could, but not before she had taken out for his client a life policy in the Mutual Life of New York.

"One thing more," said he. "Give me an assignment for five years of the $2000 annuity that comes to you from Count Louis d'Arco, your former husband, and write the order upon your counsel, at Vienna, Dr. Max Nelder."

A momentary shock agitated her sensitive, graceful frame at the surprise of his information and polished coolness, and before she knew it, and in desperation almost, she flung off her distingué signature with a flash and flourish to the prepared paper. "Voilà," she exclaimed bitterly, as she arose, with a dash of the pen to the table.

HER LIBERAL FRIENDS.

Janish was to have gone immediately to Europe, via New York, and no doubt left for San Francisco with her plans all frustrated. Wired words say that her lover was worked to secure the loan, and, mind you, she is dangerous. The friends of the coinless Countess have speculated no little as to the source of her money supply, as will be seen by the following from an Eastern dramatic paper:

"In conversation the other night with a party of prominent managers, the subject turned upon the career and methods of the various lady stars who are flooding the country, and it is needless to say that very soon the name of the fair, fresh, pure Janish cropped up. It had always been a mystery to me how this shrinking, timid, unworldly genius had managed the financial affairs of her many successfully brief tours, and where the necessary monies had come from. It is certain that only five years ago she spent her last $2 in the studio of the now otherwise employed astrologer, DeLeon, and yet since then she has experienced several costly and brilliant failures, and, indeed, is probably at the present moment about to undergo another such operation, as she is already changing her company. However, my curiosity is now satisfied, for one of the party evidently knew the whole ins and outs of the case. It appears that Madame Janish, or rather Countess d'Arco, for it was with this remarkably obscure title that she crept into the hearts and pockets of her various friends, whom she chose with a most regal disregard of geographical position, and so looked upon the world as her oyster, and in her search after angels, always speaking in a professional sense, she has been a remarkable success."

MONEY FROM MANY.

Sprigg's Philadelphia client telegraphed on Saturday to the First National Bank of Los Angeles to honor his check up to $10,000 for giving a bond, but the clerk fixed the bond at $1000. This is not the first time friends have favored Janish with money. Montgomery Sears, of Boston, touched by her beauty and distress, paid $2500 to Shepherd, of White Elephant fame, for the much-disputed play, Agnes, and, to make sure that the check should reach Janish, he took the trouble to make a journey from Boston to New York for that purpose. Sears gave her $500 later. Mrs. George Wood, of Philadelphia, is also a warm personal friend of the proud Bulgarian beauty, and has given her large sums of money, in addition to settling a dressmaker's bill of $1000, paying the Victoria Hotel a trifle of $800, where the hard-hearted landlord actually held in pawn the trunks of this aristocrat, and cabling Brown Bros., Parisian agents, $500, so that Janish could return to the extended managerial arms of Dave Pote Peyser.

Ross Defeats Hosmer at Flushing—The Time Disputed.

The Scotch Yacht Thistle Beaten by the Irex—Events on the Turf—The Bicycle Championship—A Prize-fight—Other Sporting News.

By Telegraph to The Times.

CHICAGO, May 30.—[By the Associated Press.] Jacob Gaudaur today defeated Ned Hanlan, the great ex-champion oarsman, in the race for the championship of America and $5000, in a three-mile pull on Calumet Lake. When the two men first came out on the course the water was a little rough, but this had no deterring influence, and the start was made with promptness. Hanlan was at once a trifle in the lead, pulling short quick strokes, 42 per minute. Gaudaur kept close to him, with a long steady sweep of about 38 per minute. Gradually Hanlan forged ahead, and at the end of the initial mile was fully a length in advance. Before the turn was reached the wind suddenly freshened, and rain began to pour. The lake was soon lumpy from end to end and the downpour was almost blinding. Hanlan turned first, two lengths ahead; time, 10:02. He was pulling about 35 strokes per minute, and rounding-to Gaudaur struck about the same gait. Hanlan kept well to the front until entering the third mile, when he commenced to flag. His stroke became uneven and his rowing seemed to require great exertion.

Gaudaur was rowing magnificently at the same long, steady sweep, but faster. He soon passed Hanlan. First one, then another, and at last three lengths between them could be seen. Hanlan then made a tremendous spurt for a very short time, but could not stand the pace. He lay back an instant, and glancing over his shoulder, saw himself beaten. Gaudaur was six lengths away from him. Gaudaur then slackened his speed, and passed the stand an easy winner by four lengths. Time, 20:20. It was a fine performance, under the adverse conditions.

After the race Hanlan said that he did not think the best man won, although he acknowledged himself fairly beaten. He claimed to have been suffering from a severe cold, which told on him at a critical time. Gaudaur said it was the hardest race he ever rowed. Hanlan gets 40 per cent of $3500, which was the gate receipts.

The figures 20:20 were taken from the president of the Farragut Club, who was understood to be timekeeper. The timers of the referee's boat however, agree that the three miles were made in 19:30. This has been declared official. Gaudaur, therefore, broke the record, the best previous time being his own against Teemer, over the same course—19:54—though it is announced that Hanlan also broke the previous record, having finished in 19:34. His backer says he will send Hanlan to Australia, and if he defeats Beach, will once more pit him against Gaudaur.

ROSS AND HOSMER.

NEW YORK, May 30.—Wallace Ross and George Hosmer rowed a single-scull race near Flushing this afternoon. Announcements were made for a three-mile race for $1500. The start was made in choppy water. There were three turns, and the announcement was made by the judges that the first half was made in 7¼ minutes. On the first turn Ross fouled both Hosmer and the stakeboat, but secured the lead and held it to the end, winning by two feet, in what was announced as 14:05. The judges were not in position to see the finish, and a man in a boat told them about the time. The explanation of this phenomenal time must be found in the measurement or non-measurement of the course.

THE TURF.

Events on Eastern Race Tracks—A Victory for Haggin.

NEW YORK, May 30.—[By the Associated Press.] The Brighton Beach Race Association began its season at the Beach Course today, there being a large attendance.

Five furlongs—Bell Ringer won, Hojer second, Racquet third. Time, 1:04. Mutuals paid $71.

Three-quarters of a mile—King Arthur won, McBowling second, Mollie Thomas third. Time, 1:16¼.

Three-quarters of a mile—Winard won, Tipsey second, Ariel third. Time, 1:16¼.

Three-quarters of a mile—Brambleton won, Ben Thompson second, Petersburg third. Time, 1:16½.

One and one-quarter miles—Herbert won, Barnum second, Frank Ward third. Time, 2:11¼. Mutuals paid $18.30.

Seven furlongs—Admis won, Susie Forbes second, Lord Beaconsfield third. Time, 1:30½.

JEROME PARK MEETING.

NEW YORK, May 30.—The biggest crowd that Jerome Park has ever held gathered today at the opening of the spring meeting. Fully 20,000 people were present. The weather was lovely and the track fast.

Five furlongs—Ichiban won, Pampero second, Patrocles third. Time, 1:01¼.

Mile and sixteenth—Hypasia won, Buffalo second, Nellie Van third. Time, 1:52.

Fordham handicap, one and one-quarter miles—Oriflamme won, War Eagle second, Stone Buck third. Time, 1:46½.

Three-year-olds, mile—Hanover won, Stockton second, Belvidere third. Time, 1:46¼.

Three-quarters of a mile—Young Duke won, Blue Line second, Petticoat third. Time, 1:18.

The rider of Blue Line made a complaint of foul against Young Duke, which the judges allowed. It disqualified Young Duke and placed Blue Line first, Petticoat second.

Steeplechase, full course—Mystic won, Disturbance second, Abaham third. Time not given.

THE LATONIA RACES.

LATONIA, May 30.—Owing to heavy rain the track was almost in a dangerous condition, and was slow. The attendance was small.

Six furlongs—Pat Daly won, Vivian second, Billy Smith third. Time, 1:23¾.

Six furlongs—Lakewood won, Faith Thompson second, Les third. Time, 1:23¾.

Six furlongs—Governor Roberts won, Tony Pastor second, Brilliant third. Time, 1:23¾.

Colts and geldings, 2-year-olds, five furlongs—Samolene won, Satorera second, Cast Steel third. Time, 1:08.

For maiden 3-year-olds and upward, seven furlongs—Lottie Wall won, Galatea second, Operton third. Time, 1:30¼.

For 3-year-olds that have not won at this meeting, mile—Voltigeur won, Rose second, Luke Alexander third. Time, 1:50.

For 3-year-olds and upward, one mile and seventy yards—Kapiolah won, Elgin second, Wanderoo third. Time, 1:55.

YACHTING.

The Thistle Loses a Race—Comments on Her First Success.

LONDON, May 30.—[By Cable and Associated Press.] The forty-five-mile yacht race off Harwich was won by the Irex in 4 hours 17 minutes. The Wendiur finished in 4 hours 35 minutes, the Genesta in 4 hours 35 minutes, the Thistle in 4 hours 52 minutes, the Neptune in 6 hours 2 minutes, and the Sybil in 5 hours 4 minutes.

THE THISTLE'S VICTORY.

NEW YORK, May 30.—The Tribune says that although the test to which the Thistle was put to win her fifty-mile race with the Irex, the Genesta and other English flyers from Southend to Harwich, on Saturday, is not regarded as a critical one. Both, nevertheless, did well enough to make American yachtsmen a little anxious for the safety of the American [illegible]. One thing it did prove was that a yacht has been building that can get away pretty well in an extremely light wind, but to do this it was necessary to adopt a modification of the skimming dish. The type is likely to become popular in the kingdom. A ridiculous tax on the beam has been removed by the Yacht-racing Association. What this style will do in rough weather is still a mystery. Among New York Yacht Club members there is still unlimited confidence in the ability of American yachts to hold up. They are placing a great deal of confidence in Gen. Paine's new steel yacht, and believe that she will be much faster than the Mayflower and other sloops of her class.

PUGILISTIC.

Danforth Defeated by Warren in a Fifteen-round Fight.

MINNEAPOLIS (Minn.), May 30.—[By the Associated Press.] No event since the Sullivan-Cardiff fight has caused so much interest as the fight between Tommy Warren, of Louisville, champion feather-weight pugilist, and Tommy Danforth, of New York, at Washington Rink tonight. It has been an open question which is the better man and they are so nearly matched in size and weight that the contest between them depends entirely on pugilistic ability. Warren is a quarter of an inch taller than Danforth, while the latter is a little broader across the shoulders than Warren. The men were weighed this morning. Warren weighed 118¼ and Danforth 117¾. The articles of agreement called for a fifteen-round contest with two-ounce gloves, Queensberry rules, the man having the best of the fight at the end to be declared the winner, the fight to be for a purse of $600 and the entire gate receipts, the winner to take all.

After several preliminary set-tos, the two principals arrived. Warren was seconded by Patsy Cardiff and John Donaldson, and Danforth by John P. Clow and Daniel Needham. Both men appeared in perfect condition, and when time was called responded promptly for the first round. For ten rounds the men were pretty evenly matched, and it was give and take, with the odds, if anything, in favor of Warren. In the last three rounds Danforth was plainly beaten, but fought bravely to the end, when he was laid out for good by a blow on the jugular.

FOREIGN AFFAIRS.

The French Cabinet Officially Announced—Funeral of the Opera Comique Victims—A Mexican Governor Arrested.

By Telegraph to The Times.

PARIS, May 30.—[By Cable and the Associated Press.] It is officially stated that President Grevy has signed the following Cabinet: Rouvier, Premier and Minister of Finance and of Posts and Telegraphs; Fallieres, Interior; Flourens, Foreign Affairs; Spuller, Public Instructions; Mazaer, Justice; Gen. Ferron, War; Berbey, Marine; Dautresme, Public Works; P. Barbe, Agriculture.

It is reported that President Grevy, in order to avoid the certain defeat of the new Ministry on any important issue, will close the session of the Chamber of Deputies on June 15th. At a meeting of the Cabinet, as first constructed, Gen. Saussier insisted on withdrawing the Military Bill, and as there was opposition to it from his colleagues, he surrendered the War portfolio.

THE OPERA COMIQUE VICTIMS.

PARIS, May 30.—Services over the remains of the victims recovered from the Opera Comique were held today in the Cathedral of Notre Dame. The edifice was filled with an immense throng, including many distinguished persons. Many in the crowd wept audibly. Two hundred thousand persons lined the route to the cemetery. The procession was half a mile long. The remains were buried in the cemetery at Pontin. Goblet and Berthelot delivered orations at the graves.

DON CARLOS AT LIMA.

LIMA, May 30.—Don Carlos de Bourbon, of Spain, traveling incognito, under the title of Count de Breu, has arrived here.

THE POPE AND THE QUIRINAL.

ROME, May 20.—The Osservatore interprets the Pope's utterance in his allocution as meaning that no reconciliation is possible between the Vatican and the Quirinal without the restitution of the Pope's temporal power. Well-informed circles declare that the Osservatore Romano only echoes the feeling of the Intransigeant party of the Vatican. The Reforma, a government organ, says that a reconciliation is only a question of time, and that Italy can wait calmly.

SIXTY-TWO VICTIMS.

EDINBURGH, May 30.—The search for the bodies of miners, who lost their lives by the explosion in the Redstone coal-pit, still continues. Sixty-two bodies have thus far been recovered.

MANNING WELL.

LONDON, May 30.—Daniel Manning left Bournemouth for Liverpool today. He is well.

NO FURTHER SHOCKS.

CITY OF MEXICO, May 30.—Up to 10 o'clock this morning no second shock of earthquake has been experienced. The earthquake shock has created fresh alarm about the safety of roofs on buildings of great age.

A MEXICAN GOVERNOR ARRESTED.

GALVESTON (Tex.), May 30.—A special to the News from Eagle Pass, Tex., says: "It is reported that Garcia Golan, Governor of the State of Coahuilla, has been arrested and imprisoned by order of President Diaz, pending an investigation into certain charges against him in relation to his alleged action regarding the killing of several soldiers by bands of smugglers from Santa Rosa."

High License at Redwood City.

REDWOOD CITY, May 30.—There is considerable local excitement here over the high license recently adopted by the Board of Supervisors and Town Trustees, licenses being raised from $15 to $50 per quarter. The sensible and reasonable among the saloon-keepers are not opposed to the new law. A test case is being prepared.

Mendocino's Increased Valuation.

The Exercises at Gen. Grant's Tomb Attended by Thousands.

Logan's Last Resting Place Adorned with Many Tributes—A Very General Observance of the Day Throughout California—Scenes and Incidents.

By Telegraph to The Times.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 30—[By the Associated Press.] Dispatches from throughout the State indicate that Memorial day was generally observed by parades, literary exercises, etc.

The day was observed here by a parade of all the State troops stationed in the city and the Grand Army men, followed by the decoration of the soldiers' graves in the city cemeteries. Most of the business houses were closed. Literary exercises were held this evening.

AT ANAHEIM.

ANAHEIM, May 30.—[Special.] Memorial day was observed by a general cessation of business. Malvern Hill Post of the G. A. R., with a large representation from the local civic societies and citizens, formed a procession of over one mile in length, and marched with bands to the cemetery, where appropriate services were held. K.

THE DAY AT SANTA ANA.

SANTA ANA, May 30.—[Special.] There were memorial exercises at the cemetery this forenoon, and they were continued at Spurgeon Hall this afternoon and evening. There was a fine turnout, elegant singing by young ladies and gentlemen, fine music by the brass band, recitations and other exercises. Col. Edwards presided. The address was by T. J. De Puy. D.

IN THE EAST.

Imposing Exercises at the Graves of Lincoln and Grant.

SPRINGFIELD (Ill.), May 30.—[By the Associated Press.] Imposing memorial ceremonies were held today. A great number of visitors from outside points attended the exercises at Lincoln's monument. Senator Cullom welcomed the visitors and veterans and delivered a brief eulogy upon the martyred President. He was followed by other speakers, after which a number of handsome floral tributes were placed on the tomb.

THOUSANDS VISIT GRANT'S TOMB.

NEW YORK, May 30.—Business is very generally suspended in the city today. Thousands of people are visiting the tomb of Gen. Grant to do honor to the illustrious dead. A procession composed of militia and veteran organizations, and carriages containing maimed and invalid veterans, was reviewed by Gov. Hill, accompanied by Gens. Sherman, Sheridan and Sickles and many other distinguished people. It is estimated that about 15,000 people were in line.

Early in the day Mrs. Grant stood at the tomb of the hero of Appomattox, and entering, placed her personal token of flowers upon the casket within through the narrow space filled with foliage. Hers was the only offering of blooming flowers, all else being heavy-leaved and dark green. Mrs. Grant went away to her home, not to be present when the public should come to the services. There were offerings from the Viceroy of China, his Minister here, from the Loyal Legion and many others. Twenty thousand people were there when the services began at 4 o'clock.

Grant Post, of Brooklyn, was in charge, assisted by Morgan and Hamilton Posts. Fifty colored ladies in uniform marched to the tomb with flowers. There were appropriate services according to the G. A. R. ritual. John Rhey Thompson, D.D., now of the Washington-square M. E. Church, delivered the oration.

AT LOGAN'S GRAVE.

WASHINGTON, May 30.—The services at the tomb of Gen. Logan, at Rock Creek Cemetery, were picturesque and interesting. The Logan Guard of Honor were in charge of the services, assisted by suggestions from Mrs. Logan. Such a profusion of floral tributes has rarely been seen.

GENERALLY OBSERVED.

Reports to the Associated Press indicate that Decoration day was very generally observed throughout the East.

Boiler Explosions.

CORTLAND (N. Y.), May 30.—The boiler in the Hitchcock Manufacturing Company exploded this morning, burying a number of men in the ruins. One man is already dead, two more are fatally injured and two are seriously so.

HUNTINGTON (W. Va.), May 30.—This morning a boiler on the elevator at the foot of Twentieth street exploded, killing T. H. Reece, John Kelly and William Albertson, and badly injuring five others, besides slightly injuring a dozen or more others.

Struck It Very Rich.

FT. SMITH (Ark.), May 30.—Reports from the Golden City mining region, received tonight, bring glowing reports of rich gold finds in that vicinity. Rich placer claims are located, and said to extend six miles. Assays today from quartz mines show from $36 to $59 per ton of free smelting gold. Large quantities of gray copper are found in the mines, and many capitalists from this city are investigating, and the promise is for great results.

A Vitriol Fiend.

PETALUMA, May 30.—Last night Sam Marshall, an old man, threw vitriol over the clothes of a young woman named Alice Howard. He also endeavored to get her to drink a glass of sherry wine, supposed to contain sulphate of copper. His reason for the assault is stated to be that the woman refused to marry him. Marshall has been arrested. The assault occurred in a disreputable house.

Coming to California.

NEW YORK, May 30.—The Veteran Fireman's Association, composed of volunteers of twenty-five years ago, will leave for a trip to California in a special train, September 5th. They expect to be absent, in all, twenty-six days. The Seventh Regiment Band will accompany the party.

A Cyclone.

CLEVELAND (O.), May 30.—A special from Upper Sandusky, O., reports that a cyclone passed over that place between 5 and 6 o'clock this afternoon, doing great damage to trees, fences, etc. The spire of the Catholic Church, 200 feet high, was blown over, and the front of the church wrecked.

Three Men Drowned.

PETALUMA, May 30.—Three men, while at work on the wharf at Donohue Landing, on Saturday afternoon, fell into the water. Two of them were drowned. The body of one named Larry, was recovered a short time afterward.

Don't Want Sunday Work.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 30.—The Fish Market Journeymen's Union has decided to ask for fewer hours of labor and no Sunday work. If not granted the fishermen, who number about 300, will strike.

Hill Vetoes High License.

ALBANY (N. Y.), May 30.—Gov. Hill has vetoed the Vedder High License Bill, passed by the late Legislature.

Collapse of a Building.

ST. LOUIS, May 30.—A three-story brick building on North Third street collapsed today and several men are supposed to be buried in the ruins. One man has been already taken from the débris badly crushed but still living.

Early Figs.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 30.—The first figs of the season were received today by Thurston & Hartson, from F. N. Wertner, of Winters, Yolo county, and were sold for $1 per pound.

Springer Again Reported Captured.

BENSON (Ariz.), May 30.—A report reached here last night that Springer, the Colton murderer, had been captured in Sonora, Mexico, and was awaiting identification.

John Sherman in Chicago.

CHICAGO, May 30.—Senator Sherman spent the day here quietly, and this evening attended an informal reception at the Union League Club. There was no speech-making.

Anti-Chinese Agitation.

REDDING, May 30.—A large and enthusiastic anti-Chinese meeting was held here last night. It was resolved to continue to boycott the Chinese.

A CANARD.

Rattlesnake Island Not Sold to Anybody.

Rattlesnake Island has not been sold to Jay Gould, nor the Union Pacific, nor anybody else. No papers have been passed, and no transaction made, despite the reiterations of an amateur newspaper for some weeks past. These blundering declarations have been made without any authority, and are entirely untrue. An eastern man has made advances for the island, but no sale will be made for several weeks, if at all.

More Heroes.

THE TIMES published yesterday a list of the soldier dead whose graves were to be decorated. These were duly covered with flowers, as were also the following additional graves in Evergreen Cemetery: G. Voigt, First Missouri Infantry; Jonathan Burwell, Volunteer Infantry; Adam Conrad, Volunteer Infantry; — Bailey, United States Navy; Capt. Ford, Illinois Volunteers.

A Dispute on Time.

An expressman and a countryman got into a dispute at the new depot about the arrival of a train, and came to blows at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The countryman knocked the expressman down, and was proceeding to thump him into a jelly, when the crowd jumped in and separated them. No arrests were made.

THE WEATHER.

Synopsis for the Past Twenty-four Hours—Indications.

LOS ANGELES SIGNAL OFFICE, May 30, —At 4:07 a.m. today the thermometer registered 56; at 12:07 p.m., 78; at 7:07 p.m., 63. Barometer for corresponding periods, 29.91, 29.90, 29.89. Maximum temperature, 81; minimum temperature, 54. Weather cloudy. Rainfall past 24 hours, .14.

BUSINESS TOPICS.

A Dollar Excursion.

Next Saturday there will be a grand excursion to the new town of St. James, via Anaheim. The fare will be $1 for the round trip. Carriages will be in waiting at Anaheim which will give free transportation to all who hold excursion tickets to St. James. Two hundred and fifty choice lots will be auctioned on the townsite by Matlock, Newton & Matlock. W. H. Holabird, general agent of the Pacific Land Improvement Company, who made such successful sales of Coronado Beach and Claremont, is managing the sale. First purchasers in the new towns on the Santa Fé route always make money. Don't neglect this opportunity.

The Boom in Burbank.

Fifteen business and residence lots in the town of Burbank, choicest location, being in close proximity to the hotel, with several houses under course of erection on adjoining lots, price $250 to $400 each; terms cash. Three of these lots are within half a block of the hotel. For sale by the owner, room 16, Schumacher block. Also three choice residence lots in Los Angeles city, beautifully situated, and one in Lincoln Park, near Pasadena; terms reasonable. Real estate bought and sold.

St. James.

This new town is on the new foothill line of the Santa Fé route, at the mouth of the Santa Ana cañon and five miles east of Anaheim. This town will naturally command the trade of the already thickly-settled agricultural country around it, and also that of the Santiago and Santa Ana cañons. All towns on the Santa Fé route are prosperous. Two hundred and fifty lots will be offered at auction next Saturday.

Burbank.

Only fifteen minutes' ride by the Southern Pacific Railroad, and one hour's ride through a fine valley by carriage, commanding a fine view of Los Angeles, on the south, and a superb view of the entire San Fernando Valley on the north. We request investors to go there and see if this statement is exaggerated.

To the Ladies.

The ladies of the W. C. T. U. of Santa Monica will furnish the lunch at our grand sale next Thursday, and we will have 300 to 500 seats, and bargains besides. Be sure and be there. Special train leaves at 10. Ben E. Ward, auctioneer. R. A. Crippen & Sons, 120 West First street.

Notice.

Please buy your tickets for the grand auction sale at Santa Monica, Thursday, June 2, 1887, the day before the sale, so that the ladies may know about how many to prepare their splendid lunch for. Tickets at 120 West First street, 4 Court street and at depots.

Brockton Colony.

Those who wish to get near the town of this colony, through which a railroad is soon to run, should not delay, as the second series at $65 an acre is selling rapidly. California Land and Investment Company, rooms 12 and 14, 28 South Spring street.

Home at Last.

A complete assortment of mantels and grates, stoves and tinware; quick-meal gasoline stoves, the best made. Try one. E. E. Crandall, successor to Crandall, Crow & Co., 133 and 135 West First street, next to corner of Fort.

No Premium.

We don't put two prices on the lot and then have the nerve to ask you to pay a premium on this. The lots at Santa Monica Thursday next will be put up and sold, without reserve, to the highest bidder. Come and see for yourself.

The Best Terms Yet.

One-quarter cash, one-quarter in six, twelve and eighteen months, places the Santa Monica lots, to be sold at auction next Thursday, within the reach of all. The lunch will be within the reach of all, free of charge.

Don't Invest Until You See Marquette,

The model city. Beautiful location; center of the fruit belt; 2640 feet front on Santa Fé Railroad. Maps of Wiesendanger & Bonsall.

Branch office of the Pacific Coast Detective Agency is located at 220 North Main street. Experienced detectives furnished to private parties. All business strictly confidential.

Dollars to Nickels

That Santa Monica property will double in value in the next twelve months. Remember the sale next Thursday.

The Pacific Ocean

Is distant less than three-quarters of a mile from the Crippen tract, to be sold at auction next Thursday.

Huntington.

Choice lots in beautiful Huntington for sale by Wiesendanger & Bonsall, 25 First street, over the bank.

Notary Public and Commissioner

For New York State and Arizona Territory. G. A. Dobinson, 42 North Spring street.

Where Is Huntington?

Half way between Pasadena and Monrovia, on the beautiful foothills.

St. James and Crime.

America is the best country in the world. California is the best State in America. Los Angeles is the best county in California. And St. James—well, it is the best cream of the milk. It is the Jersey of the whole herd. Other towns are "lovely," "beautiful," older, bigger, richer; but there will be more money made in St. James in the next thirty days than in any other town in the county. W. H. Holabird is managing the big excursion and auction sale there next Saturday. Property values will double and treble in value in the neighborhood of St. James on the day of sale.

Santa Monica.

One year ago we advertised property at Santa Monica for sale at auction, and stated it would double in value in twelve months. Over one-half of the same property has changed hands at two, three and four times the price paid, and we are content to repeat our former statement, that the property to be sold next Thursday will double, and so it will. Remember, I handle no poor property, always sell at the actual buyer's price and indulge in no Peter Funk; and last, but not least, we will give you a good lunch. Our special train leaves at 10 a.m. See large "ad."

Brockton Colony.

These very desirable lands, in the artesian belt, south of Los Angeles and in close proximity to Long Beach, will enhance in value 100 per cent. in less than one year. We now offer them in tracts of ten acres and up for $60 an acre. Town lot free. California Land and Investment Company, rooms 12 and 14, 28 South Spring street.

No Hocus Pocus.

If you attend the auction sale next Thursday at Santa Monica you will find square dealing. If you don't you can take a shot at the auctioneer. Get map and tickets at Crippen & Son, 120 West First street, or Ben E. Ward, auctioneer, 4 Court street.

Home at Last.

A complete assortment of mantels and grates, stoves and tinware; quick-meal gasoline stoves, the best made. Try one. E. E. Crandall, successor to Crandall, Crow & Co., 133 and 135 West First street, next to corner of Fort.

Acres! Lots! Acres!

On Thursday next we offer the first acre property at auction at Santa Monica; also, a number of beautifully-situated residence lots Round trip, 50c. Best lunch you ever eat free. Special train leaves at 10 o'clock.

Notice.

All property-owners on Olive, Orange, Grove and Angelena avenues, in Burbank, are requested to call at the office of the company, No. 12 South Spring street, at once.

Where Is Marquette, the Model City?

One mile east of Magnolia; 360 feet above the Ontario townsite. Water piped at high pressure. Hotel, stores, livery stable already built.

Now Ready.

Tickets and maps of the Santa Monica sale now ready. Crippen & Son, 120 West First street, or Ben E. Ward, 4 Court street.

Marquette, the Model City.

A great credit sale of lots in Marquette at an early date.

Glendale Stage

Leaves office of Ben E. Ward, 4 Court street, daily at 10 a.m. and 4 p.m., sharp. Round trip, 75 cents.

Money Is No Object.

The lives of your children are of priceless value. Every child is subject to sudden attacks of bowel complaint during the summer months. It is always alarming and often fatal. The only rational plan is to be provided at all times with the safest and surest remedy, and promptly treat the disorder in its first stages, and before the vitality becomes exhausted. Unexpected delays so often occur in sending for a physician or medicine, especially during the night or from a distance, that no one can afford to risk such uncertainties when life depends upon promptness. Keep a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy at hand for instant use. It is made for bowel complaint only and is unquestionably the most reliable medicine ever brought into general use. The price is no object compared with its value in saving life. Sold by C. H. Hance, 77 and 79 North Spring street.

For fear of losing a day's work, many persons put off taking physic until Saturday. The better plan is to not delay, but take it as soon as needed; it may save you a hard spell of sickness. If you want the most benefit from the least amount of physic, without causing you any inconvenience, loss of appetite or rest, take St. Patrick's Pills. Their action on the liver and bowels are thorough. They give a freshness, tone and vigor to the whole system, and act in harmony with nature. Sold by C. H. Hance, 77 and 79 North Spring street.

HEADQUARTERS.

Gen. Miles's Latest Batch of Army Orders.

Gen. Miles has issued the following orders:

HEADQUARTERS DEPT. OF ARIZONA, LOS ANGELES (Cal.), May 25, 1887.
Special Orders, No. 57.

1. Paragraph 3, Special Orders, No. 40, current series, is revoked.

2. Leave of absence for one month is granted Capt. A. S. B. Keyes, Tenth Cavalry.

3. Recruit George Buhler, recently reenlisted by the recruiting officer, Ft. Lowell, Ariz., for the Sixth Cavalry, is assigned to Troop H, that regiment, and will proceed to the station of his troop—Ft. Stanton, N. M.—reporting upon his arrival to the commanding officer.

The quartermaster's department will furnish the necessary transportation, and the subsistence department commutation of rations in advance, at the prescribed rate, for the necessary number of days, it being impracticable to carry rations of any kind.

By command of Brig.-Gen. Miles:
M. BARBER,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF ARIZONA, LOS ANGELES (Cal.), May 24, 1887.
General Court-martial Orders, No. 23.

On recommendation of his company and post commanders, and in consideration of the charges against him for transportation and executed stoppages already exceed forfeiture imposed by court-martial orders in his case, so much of the sentence relating to forfeiture of pay as remains unexecuted, in the case of Private Thomas Hanley, Company D, Tenth Infantry—promulgated in General Court-martial Orders, No. 9, current series—is remitted.

By command of Brig.-Gen. Miles:
M. BARBER,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

First Lieut. Robert D. Read, Jr., Tenth Cavalry, tried by court-martial on charges of drunkenness and unofficer-like conduct, was found not guilty, save of a breach of etiquette, and sentenced to be reprimanded in orders by the department commander. Gen. Miles's order says:

In the case of First Lieut. Robert D. Read, Jr., Tenth Cavalry, the proceedings, findings and sentence are approved. The department commander believes that the publication of this order is sufficient reprimand of Lieut. Read, and that in future communications he will be guided by the rule of official etiquette that should obtain in military correspondence.

Second—The general court-martial convened by paragraph 8, Special Orders, No. 40, current series, is dissolved.

HYDE PARK!

Look where you will in the vicinity of the city of Los Angeles, in search either of lots or acre property, for charming homes, and the best judgments will be convinced at a glance as to the difficulty of finding a location for a town so beautiful, such pure and bracing air, and smooth, rich lands as characterizes Hyde Park. This splendid townsite is located on the line of the California Central, of the A., T. & S. F. system, which is to connect Los Angeles with the new harbor at La Ballona, and is distant 7¼ miles from the center of the city; a midway town between the city and the harbor. Trains are to be running through the tract by July next, when great business activity all along the line will be the order of the day. Liberal-sized lots, 60x189 feet, fronting on sixty-foot avenues, are offered and being taken rapidly at $100 each; $40 cash, balance $10 per month, without interest. Such terms give the present purchasers a good opportunity to make money in the rising values that must follow the effects of the harbor and railroad developments. Particularly desirable are the 5 and 10 acre villa lots surrounding the town. Conveyances leave the office at 1:30 p.m., to show parties the beautiful property.

PRICES OF LOTS:

Up to 100 ft. Front, $150; Half-acre Lots, $200; From 1-2 to 1 Acre, $300; From 1 to 4 Acres, $400; 5-acre Lots, $750.

TERMS—One-fifth cash, balance in eight equal monthly payments, without interest. These prices will continue only until June 1, 1887, when they will positively be advanced. All who purchase before that date will have the benefit of the advanced prices.

The entire tract is beautifully situated, with a charming view, pure air and water and perfect drainage. The Ostrich Farm Dummy Railroad runs through the tract, with a five-cent fare guaranteed to and from the center of the city. This road will be completed to the tract July 1, 1887. Pure and abundant water will be piped thro' all the streets.

The title to the property is absolutely perfect. A complete abstract will be kept in the office of the company for the inspection of all purchasers, and a certificate of title will be furnished to each buyer with his deed.

This tract is situated upon the hills, which are rapidly becoming the most desirable residence portion of the city. The soil is a warm, sandy loam, free from frost, being in what is known as the warm belt. The elevation is such that the temperature is more even than in the city.

NOTE—The first purchasers have first choice. Free carriage to the tract every day from the office of the agents, at 9 a.m. and 1:30 p.m. Maps and circulars and all information can be had from

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE.

The Fire Alarm.

LOS ANGELES, May 30.—[To the Editor of THE TIMES.] I will consider it a great favor if you will allow me, through the columns of your paper, to say a few words in regard to an article which appears in the "Tribune Letter-bag" in this morning's paper and is signed as coming from an "ex-fireman and taxpayer." I should prefer to answer through the same paper, but am afraid, from past experience, that this article would not be published by them. We would not consider the scurrilous article above referred to as worth answering but for the fact that the party has mentioned several towns as having the Richmond system, and calling the attention of Councilmen to the fact that in every place it has proved a failure. The Richmond Fire Alarm Company has proved to this city that it means business, the reconstruction of the lines being done at that company's expense. But we can not be expected to be responsible for the shortcomings of other systems, nor do we intend to be. Lafayette, Ft. Wayne and Richmond, Ind., three of the towns mentioned in the article, have all got the much-vaunted "Gamewell" system, which certain interested parties are so anxious to have here. I do not know what system Peoria, Ill., has, but I do know it has not got the Richmond. We would advise the ex-fireman and taxpayer, who is afraid to sign his name, to get his information from a more reliable source, and also to read the daily newspapers, in some of which a full account of the test was given. If there is any other point on which the ex-fireman needs information, if he will address me I shall be very glad to accommodate him. WILLIAM HARKER,
Agent Richmond Fire Alarm Company.

TWO FRIENDS MEET.

"Hello! old fellow. What have you been doing to yourself? You look like a subject for the undertaker," exclaimed the man on the right.

"I have been taking mercury and potash mixtures until they have nearly ruined me," squeaked the old man on crutches.

"And I," said the other, "have been taking the genuine Swift's Specific, which has built me up from the first dose."

SWIFT'S SPECIFIC.

Nature's own remedy, made from roots gathered from the forests of Georgia. The method by which it is made was obtained by a half-breed from the Creek Indians, who inhabited a certain portion of Georgia, which was communicated to one of the early settlers, and thus the formula has been handed down to the present day. The demand has been increasing until a $100,000 laboratory is now necessary to supply the trade. A foreign demand has been created, and enlarged facilities will be necessary to meet it. This great California Remedies of Sarsfield Remedies Co.

Sarsfield's Remedy for the Blood and Constipation.
Sarsfield's Remedy for Diphtheria and Pneumonia.
Sarsfield's Chronic Ulcer Salve

These remedies are well known in Central and Northern California, and are now introduced in the southern counties. The MAKING OF CERTIFICATES has related so largely to fraud that the public has naturally grown suspicious of them. But those here referred to are by such prominent citizens, of such irreproachable character, and the cures are so well known, and the witnesses are so easy to reach, that we make the references without any hesitation:

MRS. H. C. GOODRIDGE, 23 Hawthorne street, San Francisco, 9 years a sufferer from chronic ulcers, and her case abandoned by physicians, permanently cured. Certified to by Mrs. Sarah B. Cooper, the well-known philanthropist, and president of the Kindergarten Association, San Francisco.

MRS. M. R. ADAMS, formerly of Sacramento, completely cured at the residence of her brother, Benjamin Welch, master car-builder of the Southern Pacific Company, Sacramento, of running sore on the arm of 8 years' standing, and that had nearly sapped her life.

W. S. DOAN, noted inventor of the steam wagon, Sacramento, 32 years of fever sores, cured in 40 days. Certified to by William Guttenberger, ex-City Treasurer, Sacramento; Alex. Neilson, John Driscoll and H. G. F. Root, proprietor of the Union Foundry, and others.

JAMES MCCORMICK, vice-president Bank of Redding Shasta county, 8 years' suffering from worst character of rectal ulcer, permanently cured in 3½ months.

W. A. DEAN, brother-in-law of M. H. de Young of the San Francisco Chronicle, cured of aggravated piles and fistula in five weeks.

REV. J. T. HUFF, Turner Station, Or. (refers to Rev. Dr. Frost, Sacramento), cured of BLOOD POISONING of many years by use of the BLOOD REMEDY and SALVE. His letter is a remarkably warm indorsement.

We are also permitted to refer to Hon. Ira Holtt, Superintendent of Public Instruction, Sacramento; L. A. Upson, Sacramento; A. D. Carvil Carvill Manufacturing Company, San Francisco; Judge George E. Williams, Placerville; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lux (Lux & Miller), San Francisco; C. B. Corwin, 925 Market street, San Francisco, and a host of others as well known.

DOUBLE-ACTING, CONTINUOUS,

HAY, STRAW, & WOOL PRESS

READ THE FOLLOWING:

EL CAJON, San Diego Co., Cal., Aug. 1, 1885.

Whitman Agricultural Co., St. Louis, Mo.—GENTLEMEN: We have pressed 400 tons with our "Improved Whitman's Hay Press" this season, in 18x22 press, in about two months' running. We have pressed from eight to fourteen tons a day in grass hay; from eight to ten tons a day with case. We have pressed in grain hay eight tons in six hours, just to see what the press would do. In grain hay the bales run from 180 to 240 pounds. We have pressed 190 pounds with ten feeds, which the Dederick press cannot do, because their feed-box is not so large as ours. The bales made by our Whitman press are much smoother and more sightly than bales made by the Dederick press. We have pressed twenty bales an hour, averaging 150 pounds to the bale, in wild oats hay. We pressed hay this year upon the same ranch where the Dederick Over Circle press baled last year. Their bales weighed 85 to 125 pounds; our bales weighed 125 to 190 pounds. In testimony that the foregoing statement is true, the under signed crew running the "Whitman Improved Perpetual Hay Press" belonging to Gregg Bros., El Cajon, San Diego county, Cal., have hereunto set our hands and seals the day and date first above written. The Mirror Premium Sewing

$22.00 for a $75.00 High-Arm Sewing Machine And The Weekly Mirror.

THE MIRROR
Perfect and Improved High-Arm Sewing-Machine

For $22 this machine and WEEKLY MIRROR, postage paid, for one year.

This machine is the first of its kind ever offered the public at factory prices, and cannot be bought from agents for less than the regular selling price, $75. It is the high-arm pattern, has self-setting needle; cannot be run backward; has automatic cut-off for driving belt, which prevents it from being run backward, thus avoiding all dangers of breaking thread or needles. It is a noiseless, light-running machine, accompanied by an illustrated book of instructions that makes everything so plain and simple that any lady or child can master it. We call it the MIRROR HIGH-ARM SEWING MACHINE, and we warrant it to give full and entire satisfaction in every case, or it may be returned to us within ten days after the subscriber has received the same, if it fails to be as respresented, at our expense, and the money will be refunded.

The above cut represents our HIGH-ARM MIRROR SEWING MACHINE, the very latest improved machine of the high-arm style; a complete embodiment of all the most recent improvements in sewing machine mechanism; a model selected by us after a careful and critical examination and test of the various machines in the market.

Having arranged with the manufacturers to supply us with these machines in large quantities for spot cash at or very near first cost, we can save our subscribers at least $35 on the price of each machine. As this is the first time a sewing machine of this character has been offered to the public at about manufacturer's cost, we feel confident our readers will promptly take advantage of this opportunity to provide themselves with first-class high-arm machines, which obtained in any other way would cost them almost three times the amount.

We could fill several columns expatiating on the merits of this high-arm machine, but to save the reader's patience we will simply say that it contains all the modern improvements, is strong, simple, durable, light-running and noiseless.

OUTFIT—Each machine is supplied with the following outfit: One Hemmer and Feller (one piece), Twelve Needles, Six Bobbins, One Wrench, One Quilting Gauge, One Screw Driver, Oil Can filled with Oil, Cloth Gauge and Thumb-screw and a Book of Directions. The following extra attachments are also furnished free: Ruffler, Tucker, Binder, Set of Wide Hemmers and Shirring Plate.

The regular retail price of this machine is $75. Our price with a year's subscription to the WEEKLY MIRROR is only $22.

Knowing the character of the machine and the high grade of material and workmanship entering into its construction, we have no hesitation in agreeing to return the money at once to any subscriber who is not fully satisfied on examination that our high-arm machine is fully equal to our representations, we paying freight on return of the machine.

CAUTION—Sewing machine agents will tell you, "Beware of Cheap machines." We tell you buy the high-arm machine on trial, and if not satisfactory return it. No agent can sell you its equal for less than $75. Each part of the machine is fitted with such exactness that no trouble can arise if any part is broken, for a new piece can be supplied with an assurance of a perfect fit.

The High-Arm Machine is carefully packed and shipped by freight from Chicago.

Freight charges are to be paid at point of delivery by the subscriber.

Give shipping directions plainly, as well as the postoffice address the paper is to be sent to.

The LOS ANGELES DAILY TIMES—Any person desiring the Daily and this Sewing Machine can have the same by mail for $20.

HOW TO ORDER.

When you remit us the $22 for the Machine and WEEKLY MIRROR one year, write plainly the point the machine is to be shipped to, as well as the postoffice the paper is to be sent to. The machine should be ordered to the nearest railroad point where the railroad company has an agent stationed, and the name of railroad station, the county and State should be stated. When $22 are sent for the WEEKLY MIRROR one year and the machine, the freight charges from the factory are to be paid by the subscriber at the point Machine is delivered to.

We would advise subscribers to order machine sent by freight, as the freight charges are about one-third to one-fourth of express charges; and while the time taken in the carrying of the machine is a little longer, they go just as securely and safely as by express. The machines will be shipped direct from the manufactory (Chicago), all set up ready for use. The money must accompany order. Address,

MAZY MOLL.

THE SAN DIEGO SMUGGLER AND HIS CONNECTIONS.

More Pointers About the Matter—A Number of Peculiarities Brought to Light—A Retired Gambler and Mysterious Sea Captain.

Samuel Henry Moll, the smuggler who is now in the clutches of United States officers at San Diego on several charges of smuggling, has a history that would make some of the oldest smugglers in the world ashamed of themselves. Moll sidled up to a TIMES reporter, who was in San Diego on the day of his arrest, and said:

"I would like to have a talk with you. Of course I don't intend to make a statement about this arrest, but I would like to tell you who I am. Guess what nationality I am. No, of course you can't. Well, I am a half-breed. I was born in London, England, thirty-five years ago. My father was an Englishman and my mother was a Jewess. Oh, I have been in every nook and corner of the world since that time, and I have had a good time. I have some of the wealthiest merchants in San Francisco who are glad to call me a friend and near relation." What Moll's object was in making this statement is a mystery, but it is very certain that he had an object, for he asked the writer several times after that he had told the District A[illegible] about his history. He was [illegible] as to who his San Francisco cousins were, and what business they were in, but he refused to give any further information on that point, and the matter was dropped, so far as he was concerned; but the reporter did not give up. He learned, after a good deal of trouble, that the Abraham Brothers on Kearny and Bush streets, San Francisco, are the relations Moll spoke of. The brothers are doing a very large business in silks and fancy goods, not only in that city but in Oakland. If Brudder Brooks follows up the clew, he may capture a pointer or two in the silk line. Moll has lived in China and Mexico, and speaks both languages well, it is said.

On the Tia Juana line many signs of smuggling are to be seen. About three-quarters of a mile from the main road to Tia Juana, and about four miles from the Mexican custom-house, a high-toned sporting man has built himself a fine residence. The house is about seventeen miles from San Diego, and is built in a place where revenue officers would have a mighty hard time to get within a mile of it without attracting the attention of the inmates.

"Yes," said Chalmers Scott to THE TIMES man, "that is the country seat of one of the most accomplished gamblers in the State. I knew him long before he built that house. He was down on his luck when he came here, and he lived around with the natives for a while, and seemed to be anxious to shuffle off this mortal coil. One day he came out in style, and the next thing I knew he was building that house. He has lived mighty close ever since, although he is fond of company and that excitement that a man can only get in a large city. His visitors are mostly Mexicans, who live across the line, and high-toned swells who are what some people would call high-toned drummers. Of course I can't say that he is a smuggler, for I have never seen any contraband goods about his place, but I would be willing to stake my reputation that if the revenue officers should pounce down on him at certain stages of the moon, they would find several thousand dollars' worth of goods that should help Uncle Sam to run this Government. I will bet you anything you like that this same gambler will soon return to city life a rich man."

The gambler's house is not the only one in the neighborhood of the Tia Juana custom-house that looks suspicious. There are several houses in the neighborhood that remind one of his boyhood days, when his head was full of the wonderful doings of yellow-back novel smugglers. All classes of people, from the Jew to the long, lank, lean Yankee, of the slippery-tongued breed, are to be found in these houses. Their very actions were suspicious when the United States officers dashed past their places last Thursday. They looked like a band of wolves who had changed pelts with the offspring of Mary's little lamb, and expected that gentle maiden's dog to pounce down on them.

[illegible] are many things in and around San [illegible] to convince even an ordinary [illegible] that smuggling is quite a feature in [illegible] world of Bayneclimate. [illegible]-looking ex-sea captains, who [illegible] fine steam yachts, slip in and out of [illegible] harbor at their pleasure. They associate [illegible] the high and the low, and seem to have [illegible]d loads" of money; yet no one knows [illegible]re it comes from. Only last week one [illegible]ese individuals slipped into town. He [illegible] having a high old time, riding around [illegible]cks with the bon ton of the city, when [illegible]ed States Attorney Brooks arrived. He [illegible] spending from $50 to $100 a day for [illegible]pagne alone. The best rooms in one [illegible] first-class hotels were occupied by [illegible] and he entertained in royal [illegible], and the gentlemanly loafers were [illegible]g on the fat of the land. The [illegible]tover did not look on the Brooks gang [illegible]n favor. In fact, he became very uneasy, [illegible] after they put in an appearance, and [illegible] very short time he cut loose from his [illegible]te-necktie chums, and begun to change [illegible] tactics. He was pointed out to THE [illegible]s man by Commissioner Hubbard, who [illegible]:

[illegible]Keep your eye on that howling swell, [illegible]you may learn something."

[illegible]e reporter had but little time, for [illegible]t was occupying all of his spare mo[illegible]s at that particular hour, but he found [illegible]later in the night, and he shadowed [illegible]a-dog as soon as Brooks put himself [illegible]s little couch. As soon as the captain [illegible]certain that the United States officer [illegible]safely housed for the night, he lit out [illegible]he city front, and until 3 o'clock Friday [illegible]ing he was in and out of a num[illegible]of dives in the most disreputable [illegible]of town. The reporter could not [illegible]close enough to him to learn what he [illegible]ng to, but when he returned to his [illegible] he wore a self-satisfied air that had [illegible] observed on his face after he [illegible] to awake to the fact that something [illegible]oing on in the usually quiet city of [illegible]dimata. He was up bright and early [illegible]ning, and his handsome face did [illegible] that he had gone through a night [illegible]. THE TIMES reporter was stand[illegible]fest from him after breakfast, [illegible]arked to a friend:

[illegible]going to ship. I have been [illegible]ough, and I am going down the [illegible]ttle pleasure trip."

[illegible]ter visited the custom-house [illegible], several hours after the cap[illegible], and was not surprised at a'l [illegible] the clearance books had no [illegible]parture.

[illegible]say there is no such thing [illegible]ing going on in San Diego [illegible]t subjects for the fool [illegible]y interested in the business. [illegible]n fact to hundreds of peo[illegible]o that the Panama steamers [illegible]s playing around Point [illegible]large settlement of China[illegible]e no perceptible means of [illegible], after pound of refined [illegible]ably lodged in the camp, [illegible]t pleasure by these [illegible]What else can these big [illegible]doing so close to a point [illegible]ere no business? Even the [illegible]s are not at all backward [illegible]that they are positive that [illegible]ed ashore at Point Lama.

[illegible]e the nail on the head when [illegible]ego is the general head[illegible]and of smugglers, and if J. [illegible]follows up the clew it is very [illegible]he will bring to light some of [illegible]smuggling stories that were

POOR YOUNG POTTS.

Investigation Into the Manner of His Death.

Coroner Meredith held an inquest at Pasadena yesterday on the remains of Earl Potts, the newsboy, who was run over by the engine at Duarte Saturday, and died on Sunday. Following is a synopsis of the evidence:

George H. Nolton, conductor of the train testified that he got off at the station at Duarte, while the train went on the Y. Heard a whistle, and, going out, found that the newsboy had been run over. Helped put him in the baggage-car.

Frank McHugh, brakeman, testified that Potts offered to go up to the Y to turn the switches for the engine. He gave Potts the switch keys and went into the car. Soon heard the engine whistle four times, and went out. Potts was lying in the ditch, with his leg crushed. Asked him how it happened, and he said he was trying to jump onto the pilot of the engine.

Morris W. Reeder, engineer, testified that he got off at the Y, leaving the engine in charge of the fireman, as is customary while away from the engine. Heard four whistles. Went up, and saw Potts lying in a ditch beside the track, with his leg crushed. He said he had tried to step on the pilot, and had lost his footing.

Dr. W. H. Holman, of Pasadena, testified that he was called to Dr. Michener's office and found Potts on a cot. His right leg was crushed from ankle to hip-bone. All the tissues were smashed into a shapeless mass. Amputated the leg near the hip joint, with the assistance of other physicians. Potts died from the shock of the accident.

Charles C. Norton, fireman, who resides at Lamanda Park, testified that deceased ran ahead of the engine and threw the first switch, locking it after the engine passed. Backed up to the stern of the Y, passing deceased, who called to me to wait as he couldn't get on when the engine was going fast. I told him all right. He set the switch and called all right, and stepped in front of the engine, telling me to come ahead. I reversed the engine and went ahead. Was just going to give the engine steam when I saw him fall. The engine was on a down grade and running without steam. I reversed the engine and opened her wide, and then shut off. Went to where he was lying and took him off the track. His right leg was almost cut off. I blew four whistles for help.

THE VERDICT.

The jury found that Earl Potts, aged about 18, and a native of Illinois, came to his death May 29th, "by injuries sustained by being run over by the engine of train No. 3 of the Los Angeles and San Gabriel Valley Railroad, at Duarte, and that no blame is attached to said company or its employés."

The unfortunate lad's mother is now on her way here from Kansas City.

THE LITTLE PEDDLER.

He Gets Whipped, Arrested and Searched.

A peculiar fight took place on Virgin street, near Main street, yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock. A Jew peddler named L. Herman and his pack were going from door to door, when he was asked into a house by Charles Fenner. The peddler was invited to show his wares, and, thinking that there might be a trade in sight, he proceeded to do so. In a few minutes the two men were having a regular monkey-parrot time. They fought until they reached the back yard, when the peddler broke away and yelled like an Apache until Officer Jackson came to his assistance. The little Jew looked as is if he had been rolled in a mudhole, and several drops of blood were trickling down his face. He wanted "dot man arrested right avay quick." The officer marched them both to the police station, and Fenner put up $10 for his appearance in the police court this morning. The little peddler could not understand why he had been arrested, and refused to put up bail.

"I vasn't done notdings, so help me Moses, und I don't got von single cent mit mine clothes out," pleaded the peddler.

Capt. Tyler ordered him searched, when $35 in gold, a strap game outfit and a number of other mysterious-looking confidence-game traps were found on his person. He looked more than astonished, and, with tears in his eyes, he reached over the railing and murmured:

"Blease, mister captain chief, gif me dot dings pack, and I gif you den dollars for mineself tomorrow morning. I don't dink dot vos von gentlemanly ding to search a man like dot, vep he don't do nothings put got licked like h——, and call der bolices." The officers attempted to explain matters by telling him that they wanted him for a witness against the man who had beat him up, but he could not see it in that light, and walked off muttering to himself.

NO GOOD.

A Check Which Was Less Hopeful Than Its Origin.

A. H. Hutchinson, one of the backers of the Band of Hope, is in trouble with the railroad company. It seems that Hutchinson is in the habit of running Band of Hope excursions out of the city. Last year the company allowed him to contract a debt of $10 for transportation. He failed to pay the little bill, and ever since the officers of the road have been trying to collect it. The other day he ran an excursion out, and Ticket Agent Smith dunned him. He paid up all except $1 on this excursion and the old $10 debt. When he was asked to pay he seemed to be perfectly willing to do so, and drew his check on the East Los Angeles bank for $11. Smith did not take much stock in the check and sent it to the bank for collection at once. The cashier informed the messenger that Mr. Hutchinson did not have a dime in the bank. The railroad people are angry about the matter, and say they will attend to Hutchinson today.

BASE-BALL.

A "Daisy" Game Between Well-known Citizens.

The defi sent by the young married business men for a match game of base-ball, the proceeds to go to Mrs. H. A. Watson for the home for stray girls, has been accepted by the married business men. The game will take place at the Sixth-street Base-ball Park, the use of which has been kindly tendered by Manager George Turner, of the Los Angeles Club, Saturday, June 4th, game to commence at 2:30 p.m.

This game promises to be the biggest thing of the season. All the contestants will be well-known business men, and everyone will want to see the game. The object, too, is a noble one.

THE DAIRYMAIDS.

The Festival at the Pavilion Still Prospering.

Last night was the fifth night of the Dairymaids' Festival, The audience seemed to be well pleased with the performance all through, especially the tableaux. The prismatic fountain by John W. Sherman was one of the main features of the evening. The grand national tableau was well arranged, and Mrs. Sherman deserves a good deal of praise for the artistic manner in which it was produced. The attendance was as large or larger than on any evening since the festival opened. The ladies are making great preparations for the closing night, tomorrow evening.

Fighting Tramps.

Deputy Constable Arguello was walking down Aliso street, yesterday evening, when his attention was called to a band of four tramps, who were knocking each other down right and left. They were fighting in front of the Schooner saloon, and seemed to be gloriously drunk. The officer rushed in to their midst, club in hand, and soon had them laid out in good shape. They were dumped into a wagon like so many hogs and carted to the County Jail. They were a sorry-looking set after the officer got through with them.

Doubly Tough.

Deputy Constable Johnston had a hard fight with a drunk, who was exposing his person on First and Los Angeles streets, yesterday evening. The fellow did not care to go to jail, and had to be knocked down a dozen times before he would give in.

MRS. BOOTH.

SHERIFF KAYS CAMPING CLOSE UPON HER TRAIL.

Under Telegraphic Orders from the Supreme Court—One Ramification of a Big Divorce Suit—Her Disappearance.

Last night Sheriff Kays was ordered by the Supreme Court, by telegraph, to take charge of the minor child of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Booth. The officers, in San Francisco, learned that Mrs. Booth left that city for Los Angeles, but they did not know where she was stopping. Several deputies started out late last night, and at a late hour they succeeded in learning that Mrs. Booth and the child took rooms at the Nadeau on the 25th. The lady was not in the house at that time, and up to 2 o'clock this morning she had not put in an appearance and could not be found. As near as could be learned last night, there is a divorce suit pending between Mrs. Booth and her husband, and during the trial of the case she was given the custody of the child, a boy about 7 years old. For some reason Mrs. Booth did not care to wait for a decision, and skipped out. The dispatch commands the Sheriff to take possession of the child and bring it before the court in San Francisco forthwith. Mrs. Booth's baggage was at the Nadeau last night, and she had not given up her room; hence her whereabouts is a mystery. The officers were on the lookout for her all night and are confident that she can not get out of town. If she is found today the child will be taken to San Francisco this afternoon.

RATHER PRECOCIOUS.

An 11-year-old Lad Turns Pirate—Result of Yellow-back Literature.

Officer Fletcher proved himself to be a first-class detective Sunday. It seems that on Saturday Dr. White, who lives at the corner of Second and Hill streets, informed Fletcher that his stepson, Conner Scales, who is 11 years old, had suddenly disappeared with his mother's gold watch and chain. The doctor was confident that the youngster had gone to Wilmington and shipped on board some schooner. He came to this conclusion for the reason that the boy has been in the habit of reading yellow-backed novels, and associated with a boy who is always talking about either fighting Indians or taking a trip to sea. Fletcher informed himself of the boy's habits, and undertook to bring him home, if such a thing could be done. The officer did not put much faith in the sea voyage, for the reason that the white boy went off alone. He went to work on the case Saturday, and traced the bad boy to Santa Monica, where he was arrested Sunday. Fletcher went down Saturday night, and after a great deal of trouble he found where the boy had slept the night before. He went to the room, but the youngster had skipped early in the morning and left no trace behind. Fletcher started out on the trail, and for several hours he searched evey nook and corney in the town, but Mr. Boy was as sharp as an old crook, and the officer was just about to give up, when he put his head into a shooting gallery, and the first thing that met his eye was the youth who had been described by the doctor.

"Hello, young man," said the officer, "your name is Scales, is it not?" The boy did not want to talk at first, but the officer was sure that he had the right one and made him confess. The little fellow was locked up until the last train was about ready to start for Los Angeles, when Fletcher took charge of him, and late Sunday evening the two marched into the presence of the Chief of Police, and the bad boy was taken to his home and turned over to his mother. On their way to this city the youthful highwayman confessed that he did steal the watch and dispose of it to one of the keepers of junk-shop dens, which are becoming so numerous in this city, and are kept running by thieves and broken-down tourists. The boy stated to Fletcher that the watery-eyed keeper of the den bought a watch for a small sum and did not even ask him where he got it.

THE BANK CASE.

What Mr. Smith, of San Bernardino, Says of It.

J. H. Smith, president of the First National Bank of San Bernardino, called at THE TIMES office yesterday to say that the report which had obtained circulation that the bank had been sold to Riverside men was a mistake. Mr. Smith presented an article which is too long for publication in full, but which recites that an agreement for the sale of the San Bernardino interest in the bank to Riverside men had been agreed upon, but when the parties came together to consummate the sale, the selling parties were not satisfied with the security offered by the buyers, and the sale fell through. The statement further says that the bank stock was to be sold at a premium, and that the San Bernardino men are willing to buy for coin. Also that Riverside had no money deposited in the bank, but had borrowed $100,000. Mr. Smith stated that the San Bernardino owners were willing to buy or sell, to give or take a certain price, terms cash in either case, to settle the matter. It seems to be an unfortunate affair for all parties.

Manufacturing Power.

Water furnishes the cheapest manufacturing power known. Where the Santa Ana River pierces the mountains the fall is great. Shrewd minds saw this several years ago, and there erected a four-story flour-mill, which utilizes a part of this power by grinding out 100 barrels of flour per day. An untold amount of power remains unused. A town—St. James—has been laid out here, which promises to become a great manufacturing center. It is five miles east of Anaheim and on the new Santa Fé route. There will be an excursion next Saturday and an auction sale on the townsite. Go.

People's Store.

As this is the last day of the month, we will endeavor to close it with the same éclat with which it began. In order to do so we will strain every nerve, as the beginning was really unprecedented. We refer you to the following few lines and leave it to your own judgments if we will be able to succeed:

For instance, to show that we are in earnest, we place upon our dress goods counters a line of embroidered dress patterns in boxes. They comprise in color, tans, browns, blues, garnets and blacks. They are elegant in design and rich in material. We have offered this line today in order to increase our sales, and have placed them on sale at $7.50 a suit. Our regular price is $12.50, a difference of $5 on each pattern. All we have is fourteen suits, and by 10 o'clock we expect to see the last one sold.

Next we offer an all-wool, tan-color shawl. This shawl is 72 inches long by 72 inches wide. We considered them a big bargain when we offered them for sale at $1.75, but today, as a special offer at 81 each, "they take the cake."

Something to be remembered is our special sale of ladies' pebble-goat, worked-buttonhole shoes at 98c. a pair. The public understand that no ladies' shoe of any grade can hardly be sold at this price. We have in this, as well as in all other specialties for today, exerted ourselves to the fullest extent, and we offer our regular $1.50 shoes, in a complete and full line of sizes, at 98c.

In order to further swell the sales of our domestic department, we offer a heavy quality of white lawn at 5c. a yard—goods sold by us at 10c. a yard.

Crinkle seersuckers, in new and attractive effects, will be sold today at 12½c. a yard.

In our corset department we offer an unbreakable-side corset at 50c. each. We compare this same corset with any other sold at $1.

We have a very handsome child's Mother-Hubbard dress which we will place on sale at 25c. each. When you are shown these goods you will be surprised at their value. Do not overlook them.

In our hosiery department we offer a ladies' striped hose, full-finished, double heels and toes, at 15c. a pair, assorted stripes. They are our regular 25c. hose.

We have ten pieces of elegant 54-inch oriental lace flouncing. These are unusually handsome patterns and have been placed on sale at special price for 90c. a yard, and are worth $1.50. Today affords those desiring this class of goods an opportunity to buy them at a big saving.

Something never heard of before will be a line of ladies' fancy-colored parasols that we will sell at 25c. each today. When seen you will admit them to be worth 75c.

Silk escurial-lace parasol covers at $2.50 each worth $4. People's Store.

CONSUMPTION CAN BE CURED.

This has been demonstrated in thousands of cases treated by

DR. WILLIAMS,

With his new system of Medicated Inhalations combined with proper constitutional remedies for the liver, stomach, blood, etc.

Probably no system of practice ever adopted has been so universally successful as that introduced by Dr. Williams for the cure of Catarrh, Throat Diseases, Bronchitis, Asthma and Consumption.

CATARRH.

Catarrh is often regarded by the patient as a cold in the head, and he often expresses his astonishment at his remarkable tendency to contract a fresh cold; indeed, he declares that he is scarcely free from one cold before he takes another, and yet he is always exceedingly careful; it is also a matter of surprise to him that the cold always seems to settle in the head and throat.

At times many of the symptoms of Catarrh may seem to abate, and the patient is led to hope that the disease is about to wear off; but another class of symptoms soon appears, and he learns to his horror that instead of recovery from the disease, it is somewhat changed in its character and has extended to the throat. A sense of weariness is sometimes felt in reading, speaking or singing, hoarseness at times occurs, a sensation of dryness is felt in the throat, or it appears that some foreign substance, as, for instance, a hair, obstructed the throat; there becomes a sense of languor and fatigue, the breath lessens upon a little exertion, a short, hacking cough, a peculiar sound in clearing the throat, a feeling as though there was not room enough in the chest to breathe; these and other symptoms occur after the disease has made considerable progress. Then it is a time when consumption is about to begin its dreadful work. Up to this time the progress of the disease may have been slow, and the patient may, in expressing his confident hope that it will "wear off," declare that he has had the catarrh for years, and has not seemed to become much worse, and trusts that he will "by-and-by" recover. But this delusion is the grand error which has peopled our cemeteries with consumptive forms, as all forms of catarrh end finally in consumption.

Inhalations are applicable in all diseases of the respiratory organs, but must be prepared for each individual case as they severally require.

By the employment of proper inhalation in the form of medicated vapor (not steam or spray) we are able to produce immediate and direct action upon the diseased surface in the pharnyx and nasal passages, for air will find its way into the most remote and intricate cavities, where it is utterly impossible to make fluid applications. By these means every case can be cured.

Persons desiring treatment by this system of practice can use the remedies at home as well as at our office, and which will cause no inconvenience or hindrance to business whatever.

I have seen so many of these cases cured that I do not consider any case hopeless unless both lungs are seriously involved. Even then the inhalations aid us in dissolving the mucus and in contracting and healing the cavities, which nothing else can do with the same success.

The very best references from those already cured.
